The Kinship Exhibit

New Program Guide

The libraries' November-December program guide is available now. Pick up your copy for details on author readings, book clubs and film screenings. Planned programs include a talk on naturopathic treatments for cancer, a human library, and a display of KINSHIP banners, a project that celebrates cultural and spiritual diversity.

The Kinship Exhibit - November

South Shore Public Libraries is proud to host The Kinship Exhibit, a collection of 19 life-sized banners that represents the lives and ideas of young adults in Lunenburg County. They were created by a group dedicated to exploring diversity in 2012-13 with two more banners added by a second group in 2014. In addition, this second group of young adults created and presented a play, "Where Ya From? Beyond Tolerance," in a number of South Shore schools. The play explores themes of diversity in a humorous and heartfelt manner. Check these links to see trailers: <https://vimeo.com/102378564>, <http://vimeo.com/101521954>

Both products cultivate and celebrate awareness, knowledge and respect for all worldviews. The Kinship Project seeks to strengthen Canada's position as a pluralist country, starting with how we choose to see each other closer to home. The exhibit will be on display at the Margaret Hennigar Public Library throughout November.

Special Saturdays - Kids welcome - November 1

Special Saturdays at the Margaret Hennigar Public Library feature Creation Station Mornings. Drop-in between 10:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. to enjoy a variety of

Storytime - starts November 4

The library is a great place to make friends and meet new families in the community. ## The most unlikely friendship

With only days to go in my Walktober challenge, I'm still amazed by the amount and variety of people who have taken me up on this challenge — some old, some young, some friends and colleagues — and others complete strangers, many of whom I have seen walking the streets. We greet each other, and sometimes antagonize each other, asking, "How many hours do you have?"

I'm kind of excited it'll soon be over, because now I can walk for the pleasure of it again instead of having this feeling of obligation, and the worry that Bob Douglas will triple my minutes instead of just doubling them. We are an unlikely friendship. Mr. Douglas is a grandfather in his 70s, but he took me up on my challenge, though I knew right away I didn't have a chance to beat him. He walks, and walks a lot. And he walks fast.

While there are a million things that make us all different, there only needs to be one thing which connects us to have a conversation, listen and learn from each other. For Mr. Douglas and I, it was a love of walking and a frank discussion about our health care system. I have lived in Mahone Bay for nearly 20 years, seen him many times — even walking the trails — and barely ever had a conversation with him. Turns out he makes a lot of sense. So, allow me to introduce my next challenge.

Imagine if everyone made a connection with just one other person. Perhaps it's the lady at the post office whose mail slot is next to yours, or maybe it's someone at the grocery store. Whoever it is, if we all reached out to just one person who we might not normally bother to try to connect with, imagine what that might look like.

Imagine the things we might learn about each other, the joy we could help create in another person, and the impact that could have.

This new challenge is simple. It's not to make 30 new connections in one day or anything specific. It's just to put down my phone, look at the lady who hands me a coffee, and genuinely ask people how they are doing, instead of anticipating that they're "good."

If we really pay attention to each other, we might be surprised at just how many unlikely friendships we can unearth.

Reality Check: Lots on your plate?

Ask most anyone how they are doing and you'll often hear, "I'm so busy!"

What are some potential consequences of that busyness?

Harriet cares for a very sick child, looks after an elderly aunt and has a myriad of other responsibilities. She's busy. She's also worried, sad and lonely.

Yvonne, Harriet's friend, is aware of Harriet's busyness and doesn't want to add to her burden, so she doesn't call Harriet and trouble her with the events of her life. Yvonne does inquire after Harriet, from their mutual acquaintances, and everyone is very sympathetic.

"Yes, it's an awful situation, and she's so busy."

Yvonne never contacts Harriet directly because she doesn't want to be inconsiderate by taking Harriet's time.

Further, Yvonne certainly would not want to ask Harriet about her child. The situation might be bad, and then they'd both be upset. They might end up crying. That would be awful.

On the one hand, this avoidance behaviour could be perceived as thoughtfulness. Yvonne is trying to do the right thing. She doesn't want to ask Harriet about her situation and possibly make things worse, and doesn't want to upset her. It's a fine intention — to be kind.

Does the reality live up to the intention?

Harriet, frantic with her many tasks, has no idea that Yvonne is even thinking of her. With little or no contact, Harriet feels abandoned. She may perceive that Yvonne doesn't want to hear her unhappiness, so she doesn't want to contact her friend until she has something happy to report. That good news, unfortunately, may never come.

So there we have it. Yvonne doesn't call because she is afraid of upsetting Harriet. As the distance between Harriet and Yvonne increases, the more abandoned and alone Harriet feels.

If only the two of them knew. Maybe they should talk?

It's easy to make assumptions about what is best for other people, but it can be really hard to be sure what's best to do. How can we find out?

One way to learn is to ask, perhaps by saying, "Harriet, I know that you are busy, but I'd like to stay in touch with you. Would you like me to call you or would you rather that I not call for a while?" Listen to Harriet's answer, and you now know the right thing to do.

Also remember that being upset and crying has its place. While I try to bring out a positive way of looking at situations in these columns, we know that not every situation is positive. Sometimes, the "positive way" is simply whatever connects two people in a shared experience, even when that experience is a sad one.

We have sad experiences. They can be much less disappointing, sad, devastating, when you know that someone cares about you.

Which do you think is more effective? To go through the temporary discomfort of calling your friend and asking if they want to talk, or, when it's all over, to say, "I didn't want to bother you. I knew you had a lot on your plate?"

Let me know at choices@focusonclarity.com or by mail c/o Lighthouse Log.

LIGHTHOUSE MEDIA GROUP PRESENTS

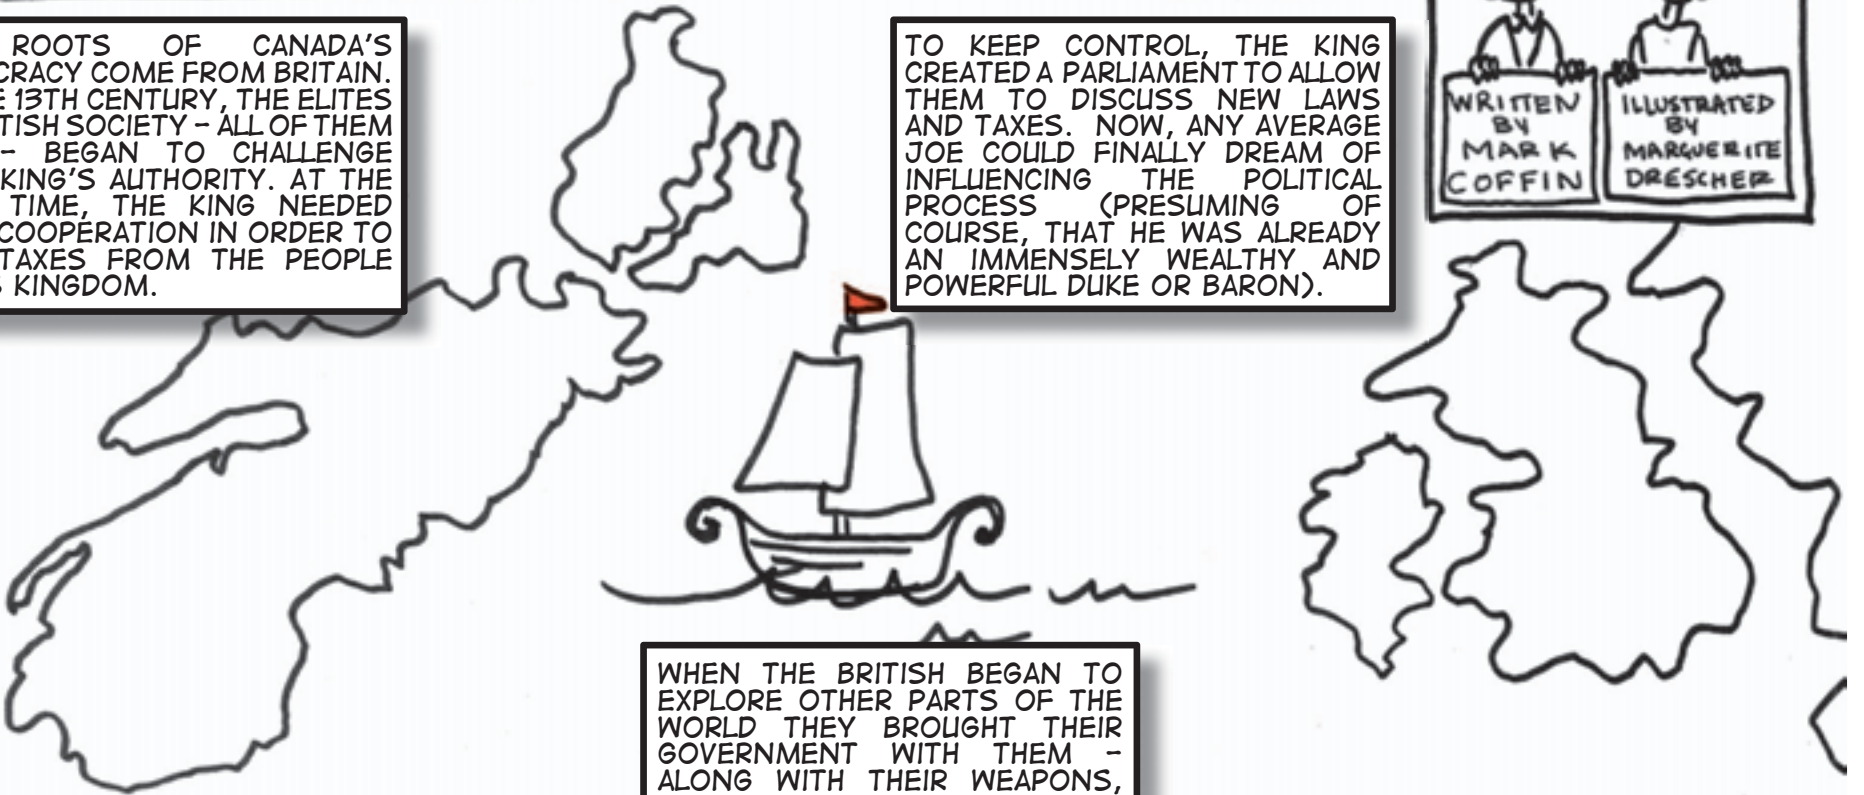

THE 3 MINUTE CITIZEN

IN ANTICIPATION OF THE 2015 FEDERAL ELECTION, THIS SPACE WILL BE USED TO UNPACK CANADIAN DEMOCRACY IN PLAIN ENGLISH. DURING A TIME WHEN MANY PEOPLE ARE DISAPPOINTED WITH THE THE STATE OF DEMOCRACY AND SOME ARE CONSIDERING ALTERNATIVES TO THE WAY WE GOVERN OURSELVES, IT'S WORTH RECOUNTING HOW WE CAME TO HAVE THE POLITICAL SYSTEM WE'VE INHERITED.

HOW CANADA BECAME A DEMOCRACY

THE ROOTS OF CANADA'S DEMOCRACY COME FROM BRITAIN. IN THE 13TH CENTURY, THE ELITES OF BRITISH SOCIETY - ALL OF THEM MEN - BEGAN TO CHALLENGE THEIR KING'S AUTHORITY. AT THE SAME TIME, THE KING NEEDED THEIR COOPERATION IN ORDER TO TAKE TAXES FROM THE PEOPLE OF HIS KINGDOM.

TO KEEP CONTROL, THE KING CREATED A PARLIAMENT TO ALLOW THEM TO DISCUSS NEW LAWS AND TAXES. NOW, ANY AVERAGE JOE COULD FINALLY DREAM OF INFLUENCING THE POLITICAL PROCESS (PRESUMING OF COURSE, THAT HE WAS ALREADY AN IMMENSELY WEALTHY AND POWERFUL DUKE OR BARON).

WHEN THE BRITISH BEGAN TO EXPLORE OTHER PARTS OF THE WORLD THEY BROUGHT THEIR GOVERNMENT WITH THEM - ALONG WITH THEIR WEAPONS, DISEASE AND RELIGIOUS TRADITIONS.

1719 COLONIAL GOVERNMENT

THE FIRST GOVERNMENT IN CANADA CONSISTED OF A GOVERNOR APPOINTED BY THE BRITISH CROWN AND A COUNCIL OF ADVISORS CHOSEN BY THE GOVERNOR TO HELP HIM MAKE DECISIONS FOR THE NEW BRITISH COLONY OF NOVA SCOTIA. THE GOVERNOR HAD SWEEPING POWERS TO MAKE LAWS, BUT NO ACCOUNTABILITY TO THE PEOPLE OF NOVA SCOTIA. HARDLY DEMOCRATIC.

1758 REPRESENTATIVE GOVERNMENT

EVENTUALLY THE CROWN TOLD THE GOVERNOR TO CREATE AN ELECTED ASSEMBLY TO ADVISE THE GOVERNOR. HOWEVER, MANY MINORITIES STILL COULDN'T VOTE; AND EVEN THOUGH THE ELECTED ASSEMBLY COULD PROPOSE LAWS, THE GOVERNOR AND HIS ADVISORS HAPPILY REJECTED IDEAS THEY DIDN'T LIKE. STILL NOT VERY DEMOCRATIC.

1848 RESPONSIBLE GOVERNMENT

AFTER CALLS FOR CHANGE, THIS GOVERNMENT BECAME CANADA'S FIRST RESPONSIBLE GOVERNMENT. VOTERS' ELECTED REPRESENTATIVES WOULD NOW PICK THE HEAD OF GOVERNMENT, THE PREMIER. THE GOVERNOR STILL HAD THE FINAL SAY BUT GRADUALLY STOPPED REJECTING LAWS MADE BY THE ASSEMBLY. HOW DEMOCRATIC!

FOR BETTER OR WORSE, CANADA'S WESTMINSTER DEMOCRACY IS SOMETHING LIKE A GIFT FROM THE BRITISH CROWN. EVEN THOUGH WE ARE NOW INDEPENDENT FROM BRITAIN OUR POLITICAL SYSTEM IS ESSENTIALLY STILL A CARBON COPY OF THE BRITISH MODEL.

THIS SYSTEM HASN'T CHANGED MUCH SINCE 1848. THE CROWN'S REPRESENTATIVE IN NOVA SCOTIA IS NOW CALLED THE LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR, AND THE CROWN'S REPRESENTATIVE TO THE ENTIRE COUNTRY IS CALLED THE GOVERNOR GENERAL. WE CALL THIS A WESTMINSTER DEMOCRACY.

NEXT WEEK...

WE EXPLORE WHY THE MAJORITY DOESN'T ALWAYS RULE IN CANADIAN DEMOCRACY AND WHY VOTERS DON'T REALLY ELECT GOVERNMENTS.
