Town earns Lt.-Gov. Award

By KEITH CORCORAN
 kcorcoran@southshorenova.ca

BRIDGEWATER — Bridgewater's got enough community soul to capture vice-regal honours.

The Main Street of the South Shore is one of four places in the province receiving the Lieutenant Governor's Community Spirit Award, which honours the exemplary civic pride of towns and villages.

The communities, which also include Amherst, the Sackville area and St. Peter's, Richmond County, will be recognized at festivities planned for later this year.

Bridgewater's chief magistrate is delighted with the acclaim.

"That community spirit is evident in many ways," Mayor David Walker told southshorenova.ca and the Lunenburg County Progress Bulletin in an email.

"We are blessed with a strong community that steps up to the plate time and time again to make our community a better place to live, work and raise a family."

Bridgewater's award submission highlighted projects such as a community garden and blog, the town's family-oriented atmosphere and for its efforts associated with the community Christmas dinner and establishment of the Lunenburg County Lifestyle Centre.

Brian Braganza, one of the minds behind the community blog, felt the nomination was a good chance to highlight some of the town's work. "It feels like Bridgewater is at a tipping point right now and can easily be seen as one of the more vibrant communities in Nova Scotia, socially, culturally, economically and from a sustainability perspective," Mr. Braganza said in an email. "This sustainability and resiliency work is critical at this time for all communities and Bridgewater is being seen as a model for this work in sustainability and community resiliency."

"Lt.-Gov. J.J. Grant will attend the events to present an original piece of Nova Scotian Crystal etched with a representation of each community's story in recognition of their exceptional community spirit," a statement from the Lieutenant Governor's Office said.

Added the mayor: "I am looking forward to the presentation this summer as we continue our celebration of Bridgewater's 115th birthday."

Troy Myers of South Shore Public Libraries credited the enthusiasm of those who helped move materials to the library's new home in the Lunenburg County Lifestyle Centre from the facility's former location.

"We moved a lot of books in a short time with many hands resulting in a collective act of generosity which speaks well of our friends and neighbours," he said in a statement released by the province.

"People who came together collectively displayed the marvellous community spirit of all the residents of Lunenburg County."

Residents troubled by shelter closure

Empire House to close doors June 30

By LEENA ALI
 lali@southshorenova.ca

BRIDGEWATER — After 12 years, a local youth shelter will be closing its doors at the end of the month, and current and former residents are concerned many young people in the area will find themselves without a safe place to live in the future as a result.

"This program is helping more kids than they can believe. It's really making a change in the community and I don't think they see it," said 18 year old Melissa Hoare, who came to the shelter about four months ago without a place to live and isn't convinced a new service model will adequately fill the gap left by the closure of Empire House.

"If some people actually stopped and took a look and talked to some of the youth — they would know."

Located at 48 Empire Street in Bridgewater, the provincially-funded shelter will remain open until June 30, after which the Department of Community Services plans to introduce an alternative service model without a shelter component.

Empire House is currently the only government-run shelter in the province.

Ms Hoare, a Grade 12 student at Park View Education Centre, says she has heard the concerns of young people in the area who aren't sure where they'll turn for help because the closure of the shelter will leave young people with fewer options during times when they need it the most.

For many like her, Empire House has been more than just a shelter — it's been a home.

On June 6, Bridgewater Police seized this pellet gun.

Police detain man after report he carried rifles near day care

Person actually had realistic-looking pellet guns

By LEENA ALI & KEITH CORCORAN
lali@southshorenov.ca

BRIDGEWATER — Bridgewater Police seized two pellet guns and arrested a 20-year-old man after a report of a man carrying firearms on the Centennial Trail last week.

Around 11:30 a.m. on June 6, authorities were told of an individual in the area of the York Street section of the Centennial Trail who was believed to be carrying a long gun equipped with a scope. RCMP and municipal police officers arrived in the area within minutes.

"When we came across this individual, he matched the description but he was not in possession of the firearms. We subsequently have located and seized two pellet guns," said Chief John Collyer.

"The two pellet guns are very realistic. They looked just like firearms."

The pellet guns resembled a high-powered rifle with a scope and the other looked like a semi-automatic police rifle.

The suspect was arrested in the area of King Street and Logan Road.

A short time before that, a couple walking the trail approached an employee at Small World Learning Centre on York Street, advising her to take the kids inside, after seeing the man on the trail with what appeared to be firearms.

"We decided we better report it at the nursery school because they walk the children there quite often. We just went in there and asked them to report it to the police. We didn't know if it was a rifle or what it was — it looked like a rifle. After what happened to Moncton, I mean, you can't take any chances," said one of the walkers who saw the man.

"We put the building on lock-down and we had to get a hold of the police," says daycare staff member Stacey Keddy.

"It was nice of the walkers to let us know. Without knowing, we would have had the kids out there," she says.

The 20 year old was questioned about his intentions and no charges are anticipated.

"Investigators are satisfied he had no evil intentions when he went walking with it. He was transporting it to a friend's place," said Chief Collyer in an e-mail.

The young man was unaware of a recent tragedy in Moncton which claimed the lives of three Mounties and after being told he "was extremely apologetic and voluntarily forfeited the pellet guns to police," explained Chief Collyer.

"Given the realistic appearance of these pellet guns, police would like to remind the public to exercise care in the transportation and use of them at all times."

Possessing and owning a pellet gun is legal in Bridgewater, however, they can't be used within town limits.

"I want to thank the citizens who had the common sense and community spirit to warn the folks at the nearby Day Care to take the kids inside," said the Bridgewater police Facebook site.

"Kudos to the staff of the Day Care for calling us promptly. It takes all of us to keep our community safe."

"The two pellet guns are very realistic. They looked just like firearms."

Chester approves changes to sewer rate bylaw

Numerous public comments brought forward at meeting

By ROBERT HIRTLE
rhirtle@southshorenov.ca

CHESTER GRANT — Residents of New Ross applauded but others from the Village of Chester were not so happy when Chester Municipal Council finally approved an amendment to its sewer-rate bylaw during a public meeting at Forest Heights School on June 4.

Only one minor change was made to the amendment since it passed first reading on May 15.

That document proposed an equivalent dwellings unit [EDU] system which would see all residential users pay a flat annual fee of $522.89, regardless of their assessment.

Larger accounts such as schools, hotels, nursing homes and other commercial entities which put greater strain on the system would pay more, some significantly.

Previously, users of the municipality's six waste treatment systems were being charged substantially different rates, with the Village of Chester the only one that has been financially viable, showing a cash surplus of what was originally tabbed at just under $243,000 but was revealed at Wednesday's meeting to now be around $350,000.

The others all are operating in the red, having run up deficits ranging from $1,836 in Mill Cove to $160,000 in Chester Basin.

Annual rates also reflect wild variances, with residents on the Western Shore system paying $350 per year and those in New Ross a whopping flat rate of $1,100 per year.

The change in the proposed amendment following first reading reflected a one-time grant of $20,000 to Shoreham Village to ease the impact of that facility's annual fee increase, which would have been over $40,000 for its three entities.

To make up for the grant, the flat rate fee was raised $6.74 to $529.63.

Staff received two written submissions regarding the amendments, one from Jeanette Reeves, president of the New Ross Regional Development Society, which favoured the changes as it would substantially reduce user fees currently being charged to residents in that community who are on the system.

A second letter from South Shore Regional School Board Director of Finance Wade Tattrie vehemently opposed the proposal which sees a $23,000 spike in sewer charges at Chester Area Middle School.

Mr. Tattrie said the board has endured three straight years of funding reductions, and has again not been funded sufficiently to meet increasing cost pressures.

"Further increases in water and sewer charges will only hamper our efforts to maintain educational services to residents of Lunenburg and Queens Counties."

Numerous public comments were brought forward during the two-hour meeting, primarily from Village of Chester residents, many of whom were upset some residences and many businesses are going to experience hikes in their rates, while others in the village would go down.

Particular concern was made regarding the impact on small businesses in the village, especially the laundromat at Shore Mall which would be charged $6,355 annually, a figure many feared would make it unsustainable.

In the end, council showed solidarity on the proposal and voted unanimously for its approval.

Under the new rate system the Village of Chester will maintain its surplus for future repairs or upgrades to their system only, while a reserve pool will be created from surpluses collected from the EDU fees to cover needed improvements or repairs on all systems.

Warden Allen Webber said trying to come up with an equitable solution to the sewer rate issue had been very stressful for council.

"It's been a very difficult process, not only for council, but for the community," he said.

"It's a fundamental change in the way we approach the funding of sewer systems across this municipality. It turns us into one community as opposed to a variety of communities all with separate systems. I think it's in the best interests of the municipality as a whole. It provides for a sustainable path forward for the management, and expansion and development of sewer systems across the municipality."

The warden said despite the number of concerns that were voiced during the evening over the proposal, "I think people are leaving here, at least, with the acknowledgment that something did have to take place and even though this may not have met their individual wishes for a path forward, they understand that council had to move forward," he said.

"I think that over time people will realize that this is a decision that had to be made."

Bridge collapses in New Germany

Culvert had passed inspection last month

By STACEY COLWELL
scolwell@southshorenov.ca

NEW GERMANY — A bridge collapse on Route 208 in New Germany last week will lead to increased vigilance on similar structures across Nova Scotia, according to the Department of Transportation and Infrastructure Renewal.

“There are approximately 150 open-bottom concrete culvert structures in the province. This is the first time we have had a failure of this type,” said District Bridge Engineer Don Coulter following the incident.

“The structural engineer who inspected the bridge on Wednesday will be making recommendations to the department on how to prevent this type of failure from reoccurring. Based on his recommendations, the department will be undertaking a more detailed inspection of these structures over the next few months to ensure they are safe for the public.”

On the evening of June 3, a large section of concrete slab collapsed and fell into Manning Brook, which is about 1.5 km west of the intersection with Trunk 10. The collapse affected one lane of the road. No individuals or vehicles were on the span at the time.

“Our main goal is to ensure the safety of our public infrastructure and we are grateful that no one was hurt. While this has not happened with a culvert before, anytime we experience an incident that affects our infrastructure we take the opportunity to learn from it and consider whether there’s something we could be doing differently.”

A department of transportation employee stands atop what remained of a collapsed culvert in New Germany on June 3.

The culvert was last inspected on May 6, when no structural problems were identified and the structure was rated in “fair” condition.

“A structural engineer from the department was on site on Wednesday morning, June 4, to investigate the cause of the collapse,” said Mr. Coulter.

“The culvert is 50-75 years old. The preliminary assessment indicates the concrete used in this culvert was not properly reinforced with steel at the location the top of the culvert where it meets the sidewalls when it was built more than half a century ago.”

The road was immediately closed following the incident and a detour route was established.

“The department has a crew on site starting to remove of debris from the watercourse. The site survey work has been completed and the department is currently in the process of designing a replacement culvert,” said Mr. Coulter, who added it was difficult to estimate how long the crossing may be closed.

“The department appreciates the patience the public has shown while work is underway at the site. The department will make every effort to complete the work as quickly as possible.”

Residential tax rates rise in Chester

Municipality still has second-lowest in province

By ROBERT HIRTLE
rhirtle@southshorenov.ca

CHESTER — Residents of The Municipality of Chester will be paying higher tax rates in 2014-15.

On June 5, council passed a budget for the upcoming year which includes an increase in the residential tax rate of 2.5 cents, bringing the levy to $0.685 per $100 of assessment.

Warden Allan Webber said there are a variety of reasons to justify council approving the increase in residential taxes.

“I could say that it’s all because of the increased pressure of mandatory expenditures, they are significant and make up a big piece of it,” he said.

“But I don’t think you can take budgets in isolation any more, it’s not in isolation, what you’re doing is projecting out into the future and anticipating what you’re going to need later.”

He said the municipality is replenishing reserves, building capacity within the community and trying to move its strategic plan forward.

“It’s a bit of a readjustment year. I would anticipate that there will be no such thing as a tax increase for the rest of this council term,” he explained.

“But at this point in time it was necessary to just deal with the increased pressures that are being downloaded by the province, to replenish our reserves, to strengthen our municipality, to build capacity within our community, to prepare ourselves for the potential economic opportunities that may come our way so we’re in a position that we can take advantage of it.”

Warden Webber said despite the two-and-a-half-cent increase, both Chester’s residential and commercial tax rates are still the second lowest in the province.

The commercial tax rate remains unchanged.

The total operating budget for the coming year is $21,482,194, which includes $4,341,336 for education costs and $1,635,250 for policing, figures which represent increases of 2.9 and 2.79 per cent, respectively, over last year.

Fire taxes will increase 5.87 per cent over last year to a total of $1,695,629, more than seven per cent of the overall budget, money which will be forwarded to fire and village commissions.

While increases in assessment values will attribute to the municipality experiencing $239,874 in additional revenues, the cost of mandatory provincial payments will consume over 70 per cent of that.

The budget focuses on several items to improve municipal services and economic prosperity, and identifies other areas where municipal infrastructure requires attention.

Those latter initiatives include investment in the Aspotogan wharf, a sprinkler system in Mill Cove, completion of Phase 3 of the sidewalk at Duke Street, upgrading to LED streetlights, upgrades at several municipal properties, repairs to sewer systems and investigating the feasibility of a community water system to service the “Village T” business sector.

Council grants will increase over $73,000, more than double that of the previous year, and property tax exemptions will also rise by $23,000.

EMPIRE from A1

“This place has been here to support me, it has shown me ways to keep myself healthy and good,” she says.

“They have rules like a normal family here. You come in here, the kids that live here, they’re like your siblings. The workers here are like your mom and dad.”

Ms Hoare says the shelter has helped her improve on life skills — everything from budgeting to cooking to homework after school.

“This place supported me and made me feel like it wasn’t my fault, that sometimes stuff happens and even though it’s not the ideal and it can’t always be fixed — there’s still help to get you through,” she says.

Before Empire House, Ms Hoare temporarily lived at Harbour House and even spent a couple of days on the streets in Bridgewater.

At the end of the month, Ms Hoare has arranged to have a new place to live, but says she’s more concerned about young people in the area who may be in a similar situation to the one she faced a few months ago.

“This place is a huge stepping stone in my life. Even though I know I’m leaving and moving to go on to a better education, it still hurts me inside to know that the kids that live here in Bridgewater will have no place to go when they get kicked out, will have no place to go when they don’t have homes,” says Ms Hoare, an aspiring RCMP officer.

Melissa Hoare is currently a resident at Empire House. She’s concerned about the closure of shelter and where young people will turn for help. Ms Hoare is pictured with a piece of artwork she created symbolizing her journey to the shelter and how it has been a stepping stone in her life.

“If I had money, I would open this place and keep it open.”

Five youth currently live at Empire House and the shelter takes a maximum of six. Former resident Celia Billings, lived at Empire House during the summer of 2012.

“I had troubles with my family when I came here. I didn’t really have anywhere to go at the time,” she says.

“I really don’t think this program should close. It’s been very helpful and there’s lots of kids everywhere that could very well benefit from this place.”

Approximately 175 youth have been supported by the shelter since it opened.

“We’re sad to see the program close and we’re all really looking forward to moving on to something else at this point,” says program manager Laura MacDonald, adding the shelter will ensure current residents have a safe place to live after the closure.

“It’s provided a safe place for youth to live. Things in their personal lives probably were not the best and so they’ve been here and they’ve gotten the support from counselling, [they’ve] been able to connect with family services in the community to meet their needs and had a chance to finish their high school education,” says Ms MacDonald.

“That impact is there and those youth will have that forever.”

Bold moves needed to change public education

Education Minister Karen Casey has established a task force to help set a bold new direction for our public schools, and we have a dozen suggestions for her panel to consider.

1. Improve the health and economic conditions for our families. Mentally and physically healthy students are in turn more successful in the classroom. "They're not distracted by anxiety or depressive symptoms they're feeling, or the physical health needs they have or bullying that's going on," said South Shore Director of Community Health Todd Leader. "Any of those things can keep students from succeeding in education." Meanwhile, a study by the BC Teachers Federation determined children living in poverty faced challenges such as higher rates of coming to school hungry or anxious, being teased, having learning difficulties and missing class time.

2. Empower greater local autonomy. For example, the former NDP government stubbornly banned Reading Recovery from South Shore classrooms because it wasn't the province's preferred early literacy intervention program despite its documented success in this region. Boards and schools require some flexibility to adapt to unique circumstances.

3. Make homework in early grades history. "In early elementary there is not a connection between student achievement and the amount of homework they're given," said a South Shore Regional School Board director while making that pitch back in 2008. Homework for young children also causes stress for families, takes away valuable play time and raises equity issues since some students don't have much support at home.

4. Close the gap between girls and boys. Data in recent years has determined a large majority of young students requiring specialized programs were boys, and international literacy assessments consistently show teenage girls outscore their male peers. "Implementing classroom practices that cater to the many characteristics of boy learners is essential," said school board administrator Steve Prest in a 2011 report.

5. Support innovative programs for students who don't excel in the traditional classroom model. We've witnessed first hand the benefits of the alternate program, STEP and options and opportunities, to name a few, but too often they are treated as "extras" and not an essential part of the system.

6. Come up with a coherent strategy for libraries. Some have closed entirely, others exist solely through the efforts of volunteer fundraisers and many are struggling with the transition from traditional print to more digital resources.

7. Stick with planned changes to the school review process. When both small school advocates and the governing school board can see eye to eye on what has been a contentious process for many years, you're on to something good.

8. Legislate periodic school boundary reviews. "I don't ever remember an actual school review that changed significantly the boundaries of our school systems," said Lunenburg Municipal Councillor Carolyn Bolivar-Getson during a 2013-14 public meeting at Park View Education Centre. She noted electoral boundaries are reviewed on a regular basis and the same thing should happen with school catchment areas. "School populations have shifted, demographics have changed and our focal points have changed." We agree. Too often, catchment areas are simply illogical. One example: Many high school students down the road from Park View are bused all the way to New Germany.

9. Increase funding for technology. "In schools, when it comes to the integration of technology, there's a fair amount of frustration. We have old equipment, it doesn't work and there's very limited access," said school board executive Jeff DeWolfe last year as plans were being made to have parents pay for iPads for some students because there was no public money to fund the devices. "It's pretty clear that this is a tool we can't do without right now, in the world we live in ... The idea of four desktop computers at the back of a classroom or having a lab down the hall with desktop computers, that has passed us by."

10. Realize early childhood education is a key to the future success of students coming out of the public school system. According to a 2008 World Health Organization report, wise investments in early childhood education is one of the most powerful actions a country can take towards reducing the escalation of chronic disease, reducing the costs for judicial and prison systems, and enabling more children to grow into healthy, literate citizens who can make positive social and economic contributions to society.

11. Continue to implement measures to reduce bullying, which still affects far too many young people despite the best efforts of many people.

12. Appreciate and support our teachers, because the quality of our education system depends on them. As Institute for Public Policy Research study puts it, "The most important difference between the most and the least effective classrooms is the teacher."

The Minister's Panel on Education is accepting public feedback on-line through June 13 at <http://www.ednet.ns.ca>.

TO THE EDITORCouncil maintains it is transparent

At the Municipality of Lunenburg's May 27 council meeting staff was directed to respond to some of the information presented in Mr. Colwell's editorial in the May 20 edition of this paper. I would like to provide some clarification on these matters.

The Municipal Government Act governs how municipalities operate. The act requires that council meetings be open to the public while providing limited authority to meet in closed, or in camera, sessions. Section 22(2) provides councils with the discretion to meet privately for reasons including: The acquisition, sale, or lease of municipal property; personnel matter; contract negotiations; and legal advice.

From a review of minutes of council and committee of the whole meetings, it is clear that council is aware of the requirement for open meetings and motions to go in camera always include the reference to which section of the act provides authority for that closed session.

The most common reason for council to meet in camera since November 2013 has been for land and contract negotiations, including: The former Blockhouse, Riverport and Centre schools; Osprey Ridge; the Rose Bay Wharf; a parcel of land in Oakhill; the Joint Services Board; and professional services contracts. In the case of contract negotiations the principle of transparency must be balanced with the need to obtain best value for taxpayer dollars. If council's contract discussions were in an open session, it would be near impossible to negotiate fair terms for the municipality when negotiating with other parties. It is also important to bear in mind that once contracts are finalized, the agreements are made public.

Council has also met in camera to receive and discuss legal advice. Similar to contract negotiations, council could seriously compromise the municipality's defence against legal action by disclosing legal advice in an open session. Council also has met in camera to discuss personnel matters. These topics are held in private out of respect for staff who are entitled to privacy when council, as an employer, is discussing HR matters.

With respect to the ratio of time spent in open versus in camera sessions, from November 2013 to April 2014, council spent almost 90 hours in committee of the whole and council meetings. Of that time, over 60 hours were spent in open sessions, meaning less than a third of council time was spent in closed sessions over the period referred to by Mr. Colwell.

As per the Municipal Government Act, the Municipality of Lunenburg (MODL) council does not make any decisions in closed meetings except to give direction to staff or legal counsel. All motions are made in open session. While Mr. Colwell feels in camera sessions are held at the end of the meeting to avoid having the public and the media present for the motions in open sessions, minutes and the recorded audio of all parts of open meetings are available to the public on our website. It is also worth noting that in the past, in camera sessions were not always held until the end of the meeting, but occurred in the order they appeared on the council agenda. Members of the media were unhappy with having to leave the chambers and wait for council's open session to resume. As a result, MODL decided to hold in camera sessions at the end of the meeting. If members of the media or the public are unhappy with the current arrangement, MODL would be open to suggestions for a more convenient arrangement.

Council agrees with Mr. Colwell's conclusion: With few exceptions, the business of government should be conducted in public. While transparency is a laudable principle and a fundamental part of our local government, the Municipal Government Act clearly authorizes municipalities to discuss certain matters in camera and MODL has made use of those provisions as needed to conduct the business of the municipality.

Disappointed in DesBrisay

I am writing to voice my opinion of the work recently done at the DesBrisay Museum.

I am very disappointed with the removal of living trees and flowering bushes. I think their removal took away the beauty of the museum surroundings.

There is a plaque on the building that lists names and individual trees and bushes which I assume means that they were donated by these people or in memory of someone. If I am wrong, I apologize.

Now, to the portable washroom which sits out in the open and we look at daily, it is an eyesore. Could it not be put back behind some trees?

Festival didn't have to be cancelled

Another event, South Shore In Motion, has been cancelled for 2014 and beyond. The revenue this brought to Bridgewater shouldn't be decided by such a small few.

However, it is no surprise because when a group of hard-working people formed South Shore Truck and Tractor Pull, the rules and regulations became so strict it was impossible to operate. Both these events brought people into town, and these people needed to eat and have accommodations to stay during these events. It seems that Bridgewater doesn't want any new events, just the Big Ex, which doesn't draw the large crowds it used to. There is no doubt in my mind this is lost revenue to fast food outlets, restaurants, motels and food retailers.

This year's event was held up for insurance reasons, but Digby is going to host the event that all the fuss was about. Also, the event in Digby is going to be insured by a company in Bridgewater. I wouldn't think insurance would be any different in Digby than it would be in Bridgewater.

Just a little note to those who opposed this event: Not everybody is content to go to Shipyard's Landing with a lawn chair to sit and watch the paint rust on our beautiful boats at the former government wharf. Just my opinion.

Most ATVers do not act irresponsibly

This is in response to "ATVers shouldn't be treated like criminals."

Mr. Byrne's total lack of respect for the laws of Nova Scotia and for those who are tasked to enforce them is completely unacceptable.

The vast majority of ATV riders do not act irresponsibly as described in Mr. Byrne's letter, but because of him and others like him the public perception paints all ATV riders with the same brush.

Mr. Byrne should smarten up or stop riding his ATV outside his own property.

He might consider joining one of the local ATV clubs where he will find out about the rules for proper off-highway vehicles use, rider safety training, trail access and proper trail etiquette.

Lost confidence in vehicle company

Late in October 2007, I purchased a 2008 Chevy Cobalt. It seemed like a good idea at the time, but it wasn't.

It is extremely maddening to know the company knew there was a problem with the ignition switch before this. For 10 years, they chose to stick their heads in the sand and ignore this problem, while ignition switches failed in their vehicles and they crashed, injuring and killing people.

There have been four other recalls on my vehicle — two fixed and two "possible" ones. I made seven complaints and appointments over three years to fix a noise in my sunroof that was never rectified. In 2009, the passenger door could not be opened from the inside. There are less than 63,000 kilometres on this vehicle and I just had two broken rear springs replaced and a wheel bearing on the left front wheel.

I called the company about not feeling safe driving this vehicle. I was told to call the dealership to get a rental to drive until the ignition switch is fixed.

One has to wonder how reliable the new ignition switches will be considering that they are now hurrying to make millions of them. It's not the least bit reassuring.

The company should be forced to buy back every vehicle that has a faulty ignition switch. I will never feel confident driving my vehicle after this.

New councillors not being treated as equals

After reading the comments of Councillors Frank Fawson and Terry Dorey in the Progress Bulletin, I felt it necessary to share my experience with the public about a council meeting I attended in April.

One of the issues on the agenda that evening was the Sherbrooke Lake dilemma. Motions were presented and every time a motion was rejected by eight out of 12 councillors, one of these councillors would look down at the audience, all of three people, and wink at the man sitting to my left.

Did that councillor behave inappropriately? I thought so.

I only ever attended three council meetings in my life and it wasn't difficult to detect a negative karma coming from around the room that particular evening. I was asked if I would attend any more meetings and I said no, not until someone does a serious house cleaning.

The four new councillors are apparently not being treated as equals. They are often ridiculed by senior councillors.

These four councillors were not appointed by some political hack, they were elected by the majority of the people in their respective districts.

How can they properly represent their constituency if important information is constantly being denied by a few senior councillors? This is not democracy, this is tyranny.

It reminds me of my high school days when the teacher left the classroom momentarily and the schoolyard bullies took control. Is this what we are dealing with at municipal council?

Now is the time for the teacher to take back control, discipline the bullies and work towards attaining transparency, integrity and accountability. If you refuse to take control, for whatever reason, the result will be frivolous behaviour, intimidation and mistrust. Folks, this is no way to run a government.

Man taken into custody after boat runs aground in river

Vessel reportedly taken from port of Bridgewater

Police said a man was taken to hospital for a mental health assessment after this vessel ran aground in the LaHave River.

BRIDGEWATER — Police apprehended a 34-year-old man and transported him to hospital for a mental health evaluation following an incident involving a sailing vessel ran aground in the LaHave River last weekend.

Emergency crews were dispatched to a “boat in distress” around 7:30 a.m. on June 7, when someone on south LaHave Street in Bridgewater noticed flares being shot off.

The Bridgewater Police Service later said an “emotionally disturbed” man, alleged to have taken a sailboat without permission, had been apprehended with the help of Bridgewater and Dayspring volunteer fire department boats. Another boat from the Northfield district fire department also responded to the call.

The man was taken to South Shore Regional Hospital.

“No one was hurt during this incident,” police said.

There was no immediate word on whether or not charges would be laid in connection to the matter.

The Chronicle Herald reported the boat is the property of the Port of Bridgewater, which operates the former government wharf off LaHave Street in Bridgewater. The vessel was reportedly returned to the wharf later on June 7.

“No one was hurt during this incident.”

Illegal smokes allegations denied

Trafficking charge also going to trial in October

By LISA BROWN
lbrown@southshorenov.ca

COUNTY — A Martins Point man is denying allegations that he had illegal cigarettes and taking the case to trial.

Kevin Gordon Hiltz, 47, faces charges of possessing unstamped cigarettes under the federal Excise Act and possessing unmarked cigarettes under the provincial Revenue Act.

He is also charged with having marijuana for the purpose of trafficking.

The allegations stem from a search in Martins River on January 17.

Defence lawyer David Hirtle entered not guilty pleas on Mr. Hiltz’ behalf June 4 in Bridgewater provincial court.

A trial is scheduled for October 20 in Bridgewater.

Guilty pleas wanted to be withdrawn

By LISA BROWN

BRIDGEWATER — After pleading guilty to drug charges back in February, a Bridgewater man now wants to change his mind.

Joshua James Laing was scheduled to be sentenced June 4 on charges of possessing marijuana for the purpose of trafficking and simple possession.

Instead, Mr. Laing, 28, appeared in Bridgewater provincial court asking to change lawyers and withdraw his guilty pleas.

Judge Gregory Lenehan allowed Nova Scotia Legal Aid lawyer Bob Chipman to withdraw from the case and set it down for a hearing on July 23.

The charges stem from the April 16, 2013, search of a residence on York Street.

At the time, police said they seized what they described as a large quantity of marijuana, along with cash and drug paraphernalia.

THE COURT REPORT

■ Damaged gazebo. Kicking boards out of a gazebo at a Bridgewater school during an argument with his girlfriend landed a Hebbville teen in court June 4. Dylan Wade Martin, 18, pleaded guilty to charges of property damage and assault from May 12, when he also pushed and kicked a young woman. The teen will spend a year on probation taking counselling as directed. He was fined $52 and must pay restitution of $29.25.

■ On probation. Breaching a no-contact order in her release conditions has earned a Bridgewater woman six months on probation. That’s part of a conditional sentence that Beverly Jane Stan, 33, received June 4 after entering a guilty plea to a breach of undertaking charge. She’d been ordered not to contact her then-stranded husband back in December, but called him a number of times. While on probation, she must take counselling as directed.

Driver jailed for being impaired by pills

Also clocked doing 150 km/h on the highway

By LISA BROWN
lbrown@southshorenov.ca

COUNTY — A provincial court judge told a Middle Cornwall man facing jail time last week that he should be relieved with the outcome after he drove 150 km/h on the highway impaired by his “own cocktail” of drugs.

“You might not realize it, but you’re a very fortunate man today,” Judge Gregory Lenehan told David Roland Corkum June 4.

Mr. Corkum, 42, pleaded guilty to charges of impaired driving and drug possession stemming from a July 9, 2012, stop on Highway 103 near Exit 10.

Crown and defence recommended he serve 60 days in jail, but the judge warned him he could have faced a lot more time if he’d been charged with dangerous driving.

“One hundred and fifty kilometres an hour on that highway when somebody is under the influence of various types of drugs, your own cocktail that you would have prescribed for yourself, that is just absolutely unacceptable,” Judge Lenehan said.

Crown attorney Lloyd Tancock told the court police received a complaint about a possible impaired driver weaving on the highway nearly causing collisions shortly after 5 p.m.

A constable located the truck and clocked it doing 50 km/h above the legal limit. Mr. Corkum almost lost control when he attempted to pull over, corrected back onto the roadway and eventually stopped.

He showed signs of impairment and there was a pink pill on the floor of the truck. A search uncovered two bottles, one containing empty caplets and another with two hydro-morphone and two morphine pills.

Mr. Corkum told police he bought the pills on the street.

He failed a drug evaluation test.

Mr. Corkum also had three prior drinking and driving convictions between 1997 and 2003 and a drug conviction from 1997.

Legal aid lawyer Josh Nodelman told the court his client has medical issues, mainly with his back and one knee, and had been prescribed various medications.

“I think I could state with some confidence that Mr. Corkum had prescriptions for much of the narcotics that were found in the vehicle, but not all,” Mr. Nodelman said. “He is, in other words, willing to take responsibility ... for having had a few pills that were beyond those prescribed to him.”

Because Mr. Corkum struggles to manage his pain and requires a specialized bed, his lawyer said jail will be particularly hard on him.

Judge Lenehan agreed with that, saying he understands the difficulty of managing chronic pain.

“But at no time does it give anybody any permission or any right to self-medicate to the point that they get behind the wheel of a motor vehicle and almost have collisions with other vehicles out on the highway.”

While Mr. Corkum denies having a drug problem, Judge Lenehan suggested he rethink that.

“You may not think that you have a problem with drugs, but you have a problem,” he said. “You need to come to grips with that. You need to address it, because, if you don’t, we’ll be reading your obituary in the paper one of these days.”

Judge Lenehan allowed Mr. Corkum to serve the 60 days on weekends, also fining him $1,035 on the drug charge.

He prohibited Mr. Corkum from driving for five years.

“You may not think that you have a problem with drugs, but you have a problem.”

Crews battle blaze at Sherwood landfill

KEITH CORCORAN PHOTO

By KEITH CORCORAN
kcorcoran@southshorenw.ca

SHERWOOD — Last week's landfill fire at the Kaizer Meadow Environmental Management Centre was arguably as tough to get to as it was to extinguish.

Fire crews spent hours, including time well into the night on June 3, battling the stubborn blaze which engulfed less than a hectare of what's called the "garbage intake pile" at the site operated by the Municipality of Chester.

"The problem is, with a landfill fire, it burns so deep into it and you don't know what's in there," said Dave Richardson, chief of the Chester volunteer fire department.

Crews hauled hose lines and sprayed from the safety of the outer edges of heavily engulfed areas and geared up portable equipment to drown the inferno with direct jets of water.

"We're more or less on a defensive attack instead of an offensive," Chief Richardson said.

Volunteer fire departments from Chester Basin and Windsor lent Chester a hand in battling the blaze, which was first reported around 3 p.m. Landfill workers discovered the fire and requested help.

Chester summoned Windsor's fire department in hopes of using their truck, referred to as a snorkel, which is capable of dispensing an elevated stream of water, similar to what an aerial ladder truck could accomplish.

Unfortunately, the vehicle was unable to get close to the fire in order to get the desired water pressure.

"We tried it but it didn't work so we went to Plan B," Chief Richardson explained.

The fire department was unaware a new access road was built on site, a fact the chief said would have made a difference in truck and personnel placement.

"We'll know for the next time."

Fire crews have fought fires at the waste site in the past, including a lengthy battle in the rubbish last August. Wind direction favoured the work of first responders then as it did last week, blowing toward the extensive trash pile and not toward neighbouring woodland.

"That was about the only thing that was helping us today, was the direction of the wind," the chief said.

Relief fire crews were called in after 10 p.m. to spell off those who'd been working the scene for several hours.

Chief Richardson estimated it would be "almost impossible" to determine where the fire started or what caused it.

The Municipality of Chester's solid waste director, Bruce Forest, has indicated in the past that waste sorting habits and chemicals in the environment can contribute to the risk of landfill fires.

Drug drop-off collects over 6,000 pills

By LISA BROWN
lbrown@southshorenw.ca

BRIDGEWATER — Bridgewater's police chief is calling last month's prescription drug drop-off a success after it collected about 6,000 unused pills.

Chief John Collyer said the number is similar to last year's count, "but the percentage of prescription narcotics was actually quite a bit higher this year than last year."

People turned in more than 700 such pills May 10, compared to 180 at the inaugural event in 2013.

"What it means, I think, is perhaps there's a little bit greater awareness of the need to get rid of these pills," the chief said.

"I'm hoping that's what it is," he added. "I think the public remembered it from last year and were pretty quick to bring the stuff in and get rid of it."

Among those medications were pills such as hydromorphone and Dilaudid.

"We saw some very interesting things being passed in, in terms of prescription narcotics. It was the kind of stuff that we very much wanted to get off the streets," Chief Collyer said.

"The kind of prescription drugs that are most commonly abused are what we were seeing being turned in, and considered the most valuable to sell."

The Bridgewater drop-off was held at the Bridgewater Mall. Similar events were held at pharmacies in Lunenburg and Chester.

Lunenburg approves capital and operating budgets

By ROBERT HIRTLE
rhirtle@southshorenw.ca

LUNENBURG — The Town of Lunenburg's 2014-15 capital and operating budgets for the Town of Lunenburg have been approved by council.

Mayor Rachel Bailey said while there may never be a capital budget containing everything council would like to have done, she is pleased with what staff have accomplished this year.

"Looking at our strategic plan and things we want to do, you are always handicapped somewhat by the dollars and cents," said Mayor Bailey.

"But I think we've been strategic in trying to prioritize the things we need to do for basic provision of good roads, good sidewalks — trying to use our active transportation strategy to sort of give us a better idea of what the priorities should be in making connections around town."

Mayor Bailey said the budget would, "keep our staff busy in the coming year and move us along, keeping us a strong and maintained community."

Projected operating expenses for the coming year total $5,566,400, up from the $5,371,530 which was budgeted for 2013-14.

The town's capital budget has a total of $1,558,911 for a variety of projects, the most ambitious being the purchase of a new aerial truck for the Lunenburg and District Fire Department. The total cost of that was targeted at $748,145, of which the town will provide $448,887 and the district $299,258. Should the cost be over the budgeted amount, it will be the responsibility of the fire department to raise the extra funds.

Other significant expenditures include $200,000 for reconstruction of Starr Street from the town's waste water treatment plant to Kissing Bridge Road and paving the Wolff Avenue extension as well as a section of Pelham Street from Duke Street to King Street.

The capital budget for the town's water utility totalled $326,350, highlighted by a $300,000 expenditure to replace the distribution main on the underdeveloped portion of Kaulback Street to Kinley Drive which services properties on Kinley Drive and the Cornwallis Street condominiums.

The electric utility capital budget was $342,000, of which $200,000 is earmarked for a new boom-bucket truck.

Other expenses included a school board payment of $748,000 — up $13,000 over last year — an uptick in policing costs from $686,800 in 2013-14 to $707,400 and a hike in the transportation services budget from $814,350 to $846,450.

The budget for environmental health services dropped slightly from $995,700 to $985,800, due primarily to the installation of a de-watering system at the town's waste water treatment plant earlier this year which cut down on the weight of sludge being trucked away for disposal.

The town's electric utility budget was set at $6,130,100 while the town's water utility budget rose from $1,199,600 to $1,203,200.

Grad overcame personal, academic struggles before finding his calling

By REBECCA DINGWELL
rdingwell@southshorenov.ca

For Blair DeBaie, the path to graduation from The Nova Scotia Community College — Lunenburg Campus hasn't been linear, but he wouldn't have it any other way.

Growing up in New Germany, Blair didn't always have his sights set on business.

After graduating high school in 2006, he began his post-secondary journey at Acadia University, where he studied science for two years.

He was then accepted into the pharmacy program at Dalhousie University when a family tragedy put all his plans on hold.

"It was actually the day after I got my acceptance letter to pharmacy school that my younger sister passed away in a motor vehicle accident."

He deferred his acceptance for a year and began attending Dal in 2009.

"I was there for about two months when I realized I still wasn't ready to be back in school yet," said Mr. DeBaie. "So at that time, I opted for a one year leave of absence from the program."

While completing his first semester of pharmacy in 2010, with the help of a counsellor, Mr. DeBaie discovered he had a learning disability.

"My counsellor was beginning to wonder if my academic difficulty was purely related to the grief-related issues or if it was something else."

After pre-screening, Mr. DeBaie was eventually able to have a full assessment conducted and begin to understand why he never really enjoyed reading books.

"My particular learning disability interferes most prominently with my ability to efficiently understand information I read."

The assessment also revealed his strengths, such as a strong memory.

Blair DeBaie says he will graduate from a Nova Scotia Community College business program with an cumulative average of about 96.2

"I've capitalized on those strengths to help get me through academic environments."

However, despite his best efforts and the efforts of the school, it was difficult to get academic supports in place given the nature of the program.

"You would complete courses in a matter of weeks that you would normally take over the course of a semester or two semesters, and there's a lot of reading in pharmacy," said Mr. DeBaie.

"One of the most crucial aspects of my time here at NSCC was the significance of disability supports."

When the winter university semester began, he finally decided pharmacy was not the right fit for him.

"It wasn't working out the way I needed it to."

When Mr. DeBaie came home that January, he decided to come up with a new career path. Through speaking with a career counsellor at Dal, Blair realized he didn't have the physics required to get into many of the other

"The supports I've received while here at the college have played a key role in my success."

Blair DeBaie
Community college grad

"The supports I've received while here at the college have played a key role in my success," said Mr. DeBaie, adding his time at the college has taught him the importance of life-long learning.

He plans to attend Saint Mary's University in the fall. "It's been a really good two years. I couldn't have asked for better."

Mr. DeBaie expects to graduate with his schoolmates at the Lunenburg Campus convocation on June 11.

That led him to take physics at the community college during summer 2011, when he was also working at the Lunenburg Arms Hotel. It was while working the night audit that his interest in business was sparked. By December, he knew exactly what he wanted to pursue. If he'd had any doubts, his final mark of 100 on his first accounting course probably dismissed them.

"I decided to switch to full-time on campus studies for the fall of 2012."

During his first year, he took the opportunity to volunteer with the student association as well as the test drive mentors program.

By the end of his first year, Mr. DeBaie decided to run for president of the student association.

"In the end, I was elected with, I think, 82 per cent of the votes."

In his second year, Mr. DeBaie successfully applied for a position as an intern in student services. In addition to his other responsibilities, Blair was able to sit in on two hiring panels with staff.

Meanwhile, to help him with his academic difficulties, he was accommodated with a quiet space to write his tests and use read-aloud software.

Mahone Bay Centre celebrates 100 years

By REBECCA DINGWELL
rdingwell@southshorenw.ca

The old school in Mahone Bay celebrated its 100th anniversary on June 4, with the opening of a temporary summer exhibit and the unveiling of a permanent exhibit.

While the building at 45 School Street may no longer be a school, it is still of importance to residents of Mahone Bay and surrounding communities.

"One hundred years ago today, people were working on the old school," said Bob Sayer, the lead organizer of the event.

"Just about every able-bodied man who didn't have a [regular] job was driving nails and doing carpenter work."

Newspaper articles, photos, and items from the old school are all part of the temporary exhibit. There are also parts of the exhibit which focus on the present state of the building, describing its renovations, its investment in efficient energy and the senior projects at work.

"In 2000, the district school board closed the school and Bayview School was being built," explained Mr. Sayer.

"The town was in a dilemma."

Soon after, the Mahone Bay Centre Society was formed and the building was saved. It's now a heritage property.

"It's been a success story," said Mr. Sayer.

"I can think of no other building in Nova Scotia which was built as a school and is still vibrant and still the center of the community."

Paul Seltzer, the chair of the Mahone Bay Centre Society, spoke before the permanent fixture was revealed.

"We savor the past, and also realize a lot of service is involved," said Mr. Seltzer.

"There's lots of pictures and memorabilia around here to trigger our memories."

In addition to the exhibit, the Mahone Bay Quilters Guild presented their commemorative quilt. Not only did Anna Davison head the project, but her six children attended the school.

The colourful quilt has squares with different images sewn into it with a larger picture of the school in the center.

"The first thing I thought of, of course, was 'ABC' blocks, which is natural for a school," said Ms Davison.

She brainstormed with the other guild members about what should go in each square. The images all correspond with things to do with the school in alphabetical order. For example, lunch for 'L' and a yearbook for 'Y.'

"Then, we decided to have the names of people who were significant in building the school, people who taught here... and also, with the centre," explained Ms Davison.

The exhibit, which includes the quilt, will be open at various times throughout the summer.

Mr. Seltzer said if the Mahone Bay Centre can reach $30,000 in donations, the federal government will match it. The money will go to projects such as refurbishing the bell tower. He hopes the centre will be able to continue for another hundred years.

"Everything goes on here," said Mr. Sayer.

"From the food bank, to artists, to seniors helping seniors... It really is the heart of the community."

Sign of summer: Province slates repaving jobs

Expect traffic delays as the province repaves a pair of Lunenburg County roads this summer.

The Department of Transportation issued a statement on June 4 notifying the motoring public of roadwork planned for the Walburne Road and Forties Road.

Sections of the Walburne Road, which spans between the intersections of the Newburne Road in Newburne and the Woodstock Road in Walden, will be reduced to one lane for repaving until August 31.

"Sections of Woodstock Road will also be reduced to one lane," the department said in the statement.

Meanwhile, sections of the Forties Road between the intersections of the Barss Corner Road at Franey Corner and Fraxville Road in the Forties will be cut to one lane for repaving. That work's scheduled to finish at the end of September.

Flaggers will handle traffic control for both road jobs.

Strategic plan available to the public

By ROBERT HIRTLE
rhirtle@southshorenov.ca

LUNENBURG — The Town of Lunenburg has released its 2014 strategic plan to the public.

According to Mayor Rachel Bailey, the document is an updated version of the original plan, which was launched in 2011.

The mayor indicated during the May 27 meeting of council that the timing of its completion fits well with the current ongoing budget deliberations as "one affects the other."

"The strategic plan should be used for future budgeting and operations, as well, and does seem to be consistent with the budget we are looking at for 2014-15," she told council, adding it is important to look at budget numbers "from a strategic perspective."

She said that, while there are wording and format changes compared to the previous plan, there is very little new with regard to what the town's strategy is going forward.

Staff have prepared a "Coles Notes" version of the revised plan which will be distributed to residents in upcoming electric utility bills.

Consideration is also being given to setting up an information station at the town's weekly farmers' market.

"The public is invited to comment on it, it's a static document, it's a fluid document, and there will be changes as we go on," Mayor Bailey said. "Having it in the public eye is certainly a step in the right direction."

Students attend National Science Fair

By LEENA ALI

lali@southshorenov.ca

MAHONE BAY — A group of students from Bayview Community School recently represented Team Nova Scotia at the National Science Fair in Windsor, Ontario.

Jane Berrigan, chair of the South Shore Regional Science Fair, says it may be the first time that all of the students who attended nationally were from the same school.

The four students were among 500 across the country to present their projects at last month's fair at the University of Windsor.

"There are 500,000 science fair projects done across the country and the top one per cent end up at the national fair. To have students who compete at that level and are able to win bronze medals, it's an outstanding accomplishment," says Ms Berrigan.

During the trip, the students can choose to participate in various workshops such as chemistry, engineering, electrical or pharmaceutical.

"They get to explore other science-related careers and occupations and post-secondary options," says Ms Berrigan.

In the project titled "Great Jeans or Great Genes," Grade 9 student Jessica Vaszily, who also attended the science fair last year, conducted surveys to research the lifestyles and academic performance of students.

"I wanted to determine whether academically strong students are different from academically weaker students by genetics or environment. On the survey, it asked about home environment and school environment and I figured out that academically strong students play sports more often and they read more often. They're more social and they have less family issues at home too — and their grades are higher," says Ms Vaszily.

Grade 8 student Skylar Barkhouse won a bronze medal, a $1,000 entrance scholarship to Western University and $100 in cash.

Her project, titled "What's The Buzz? Your Future Hearing Loss," proved that hearing ability decreased as people age.

She conducted two tests on 40 different people of various ages to see whether or not high-pitched hearing diminished before low-pitched hearing.

"I played them four different frequencies high to low and I found out that the older people couldn't hear high-pitched sounds as well as the younger people," says Ms Barkhouse.

"I tested with a decibel metre on my iPod to see how loud their music really was and, out of the 20 people I tested, 17 of them were listening to a decibel level where hearing damage does occur. There's a serious issue there about hearing and hearing loss in the next generation," she says.

Grade 9 student Bailey Fenton, also received a bronze medal, a $1,000 entrance scholarship to Western University and $100 in cash. Her project, called "Thrival or Survival?," looked into the effect that tunicates are having on the mussel growing industry in Nova Scotia.

She also created a device called BAI-TON BLUE that she hopes will prevent the tunicates from attaching onto the mussel lines.

"The device will be tested in the summer because I would need from June to October — that's the peak time for the mussel and tunicates growth," she says.

"Sugar Sugar: Can it Kill me?" was the title of a science project by Grade 9 student Erin Smith, who also attended the National Science Fair last year.

Through testing on plants she wanted to find out whether or not sugar was just as harmful as tobacco and alcohol.

"I found out that the sugar was a lot more deadly, because the sugar killed the plant in 10 days, whereas, it took the alcohol 12 days to kill the plant," she says.

Both the tobacco and water plants were still alive after the 14 days of her experiment.

She discovered that sugar affects human growth and development, speeds up aging and also has an effect on our judgment.

"This is really students' hard work, the hard work of their teachers and their families, providing this opportunity for them to go forward," says Ms Berrigan.

Bayview science teacher, Chad Frittenburg, says the science fair projects are a great way of taking learning outside of the classroom. Adding that it's about "taking a problem and seeing it through to a completion."

"This, to me, is the best educational experience a student can take on," he says.

'Trashy' project garners surprise gifts

Jacqui Inglis, a Grade 6 student at Bluenose Academy, got a big surprise when she e-mailed a biodegradable bag manufacturer to tell them the results of her science project.

By ROBERT HIRTLE
rhirtle@southshorenov.ca

LUNENBURG — You never know what can happen when you contact a company to tell them their product is the best.

Jacqui Inglis, a Grade 6 student at Bluenose Academy, recently discovered that sometimes the reaction can be unexpected, but in a positive way.

Jacqui decided to do her project for this year's school science fair on biodegradable garbage bags, the kind many people use to line their in-house mini green bins.

"I thought it would be a good idea to see which bag would biodegrade quickest," she explained. "My family uses bags and we wanted to know which one is the best to use."

Jacqui tested three bags for her project, and she set up a controlled experiment to see which brand would break down first.

"I put the three different brands in three different containers and stored them in a dark, warm place," she recalled. "But then I found out that they actually work better in the sunlight, so then I moved them down next to the sliding [patio] door."

Jacqui determined that of the trio of brands, Al-Pack biodegraded the fastest and, once she proved that, she decided to e-mail the company and tell them of her project, its results and the fact that her family has decided they are going to use their brand of bags from now on.

The people at Al-Pack were so impressed with Jacqui's letter that they decided to show their appreciation of her work in a tangible way.

"They gave me a gift card to Chapters, a certificate and 60 bags of Al-Pack for the students in Grade 6. And they also sent me a DVD," she said. "It was great."

Newspaper, staff win regional, national awards

Progress Bulletin second overall in Atlantic Canada

The Lunenburg County Progress Bulletin placed second overall in Atlantic Canada in its class at the recent Ink and Beyond regional and national newspaper conference and awards gala in Charlottetown.

"Chock-full of hard news, great community content and lively sports, the Progress Bulletin is a page-turner," said the judge's comments.

Meanwhile, Penny McDonald was awarded best overall ad for her work with a Bridgewater restaurant in the Lighthouse Log.

"If I saw the ad I would be intrigued to visit the place and try it out," said the judge. "And that should be the effect of every ad."

Vicki Hines won best graphically designed ad for her work on the same advertisement. She was commended for her use of colour and the ad's eye-catching quality.

Among the other winners were Vernon Oickle for best general interest column and Tina Hennigar for best in-house promotion.

"They produced a series of self promotional material that spelled out in great detail everything this vibrant community newspaper does for the community it lives in," said the judge about the in-house promotion.

On a humorous note, the Progress Bulletin also won Best Red Lobster – in other words, the funniest error. The Bulletin's employment ad for a funeral home mistakenly read applicants must be "comfortable reviving guests."

Standing finalists included Paula Levy for best resources story regarding a piece in the Progress Bulletin on the haskap industry, southshorenov.ca as best website and Steve Tanner for best advertising program which the judge praised as "very innovative."

In addition, Penny McDonald was a standing finalist for both best small ad and best advertising program.

The Progress Bulletin also won a handful of Canadian Community Newspaper awards, including:

- First place for best community service for supporting the Kinsmen field's Kraft Celebration tour campaign
- First place for the "Let them eat cake" promotional campaign
- Third place for best holiday edition
- Third place for best news story for Lisa Brown's work regarding prescription drug abuse

The 2014 Ink and Beyond newspaper conference and national and regional awards galas took place in Charlottetown from May 28 to 30.

PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE In the matter of the Municipal Government Act and the Municipality of the District of Chester

TAKE NOTICE THAT, on Thursday 15 May 2014, Chester Municipal Council gave notice of its intention to amend the Chester Village Area Land Use By-law by changing two definitions in Section 16, and adding to Section 4.5 (Waivers and Exemptions). South Shore Health presents annual awards

scolwell@southshorenov.ca

COUNTY — South Shore Health honoured individuals and one group for their outstanding contributions to local health care during a May 27 ceremony in Bridgewater.

“So many dedicated people work tirelessly on the front lines and behind the scenes to provide care and improve the health and wellness of individuals in our community,” said board chairman Wayne Foster.

“Our Celebrating Excellence Awards give us an opportunity to formally recognize and showcase some of these outstanding contributions.”

The recipient of the South Shore Health spirit award was Irene Hirtle, who provides bereavement support as part of palliative care services.

“She consistently demonstrates an ongoing commitment and passion to support individuals who are experiencing challenging and difficult times. She gives freely of her personal time and energy to bring joy to others,” said a release.

“One of Irene’s special talents is crafting with a purpose - making beautiful homemade greeting cards in support of worthwhile causes such as the Health Services Foundation’s Rose Fund, as well as relief efforts around the world. Irene is a highly regarded member of her team and community, who regularly demonstrates caring and support for colleagues, patients and families.”

The community health leadership award was presented to mental health nurse Kelly Becker, who has helped improve access to timely and targeted services for clients and been an enthusiastic leader with her colleagues.

“Kelly demonstrates leadership that is strong in action and passionate by example, and a compass that’s clearly pointed in the direction of the client,” said addiction and mental health services manager Clara Miller.

Longtime family and emergency medicine physician Dr. John Jenkins was named this year’s exemplary service award winner.

“John always steps up to the plate to provide the helping hand, to cover a shift or sit on a committee, even helping out in another community,” said South Shore Health director of primary health care Marlene Wheatley Downe.

“He goes beyond the call of duty on a regular basis - always putting patients first.”

Dr. Jenkins is a founding member of Lunenburg Family Health and is currently the head of the emergency department at Fishermen’s Memorial Hospital. He has also served on many committees and held various leadership roles.

Finally, the South Shore Collaborative Breastfeeding Network received the outstanding quality initiative award.

“As a community pharmacist, I am extremely grateful to have the South Shore Collaborative Breastfeeding Network to refer patients and their families to for support in achieving their breastfeeding goals,” said pharmacist Jennine Crawshaw.

“As a mother, I can assure you that without the network, I would not currently be providing my daughter with the benefits of still breastfeeding today.”

The network’s partners include Lunenburg Queens community baby-friendly initiative committee, staff from South Shore Health’s maternal and child health, chronic disease management and public health teams, as well as midwives and doctors, the Better Together Family Resource Centre and LaLeche League.

PUBLIC INPUT: COASTAL POLICY

The Municipality’s Planning & Development Services is working with Bluenose Coastal Action Foundation (BCAF), to host four meetings over the next month. The purpose of these meetings is to consult with residents and landowners in local coastal communities, and obtain feedback from citizens on what policy options - if any - that the Municipality should consider around future coastal developments in the Municipality.

Many local residents may recall that the Province initiated some discussion on coastal management issues in 2011 - the Municipality is interested in hearing from citizens on how local government may become involved.

All four meetings will start with a short presentation at 7:00PM, following by an ‘open-house’ styled opportunity to review related information, and to fill out specific feedback forms. Public feedback will be gathered, and presented to Municipal Council, before there is any determination of any further action or policy development. The dates and locations of the four meetings are as follows:

Date	Location	Address
Monday June 16	Petite Riviere Fire Hall	18 Petite Riviere Rd
Wednesday June 18	Riverport Community Centre	79 Lower Lahave Rd
Wednesday June 25	St Barnabas Church	10 the Lane, Blue Rocks
Wednesday July 9	Mahone Bay Centre	45 School St

All members of the public are welcome to attend any of the four dates. If unable to attend, the Municipality still wants to gather your input. A copy of the Feedback form, and related information pertinent to the issue of local coastal policy, can be found at:

<http://www.modl.ca/coastal-policy>

If you have any questions or concerns, please contact the Planning Department at 541-1325. If you want to stay informed, send an email to planning@modl.ca titled: Coastal Policy.

Residents offer Sherbrooke Lake compromise

By LUKE KENNY
lkenny@southshorenw.ca

COUNTY - A letter from a group of residents from the Sherbrooke Lake area was referred back to committee at the Municipality of Lunenburg (MODL) committee of the whole meeting on June 2.

The correspondence was in response to a mutual desire to set the debate about public access to Sherbrooke Lake on a new trajectory so the community can work with the MODL to find a solution to the controversial issue.

"It was evident at the May 5 community meeting at the Parkdale/Maplewood Community Centre that there is considerable dissatisfaction within the community with respect to the current direction being taken to achieving the MODL's policy of having public access to the lake," the letter says.

"We are prepared to make a commitment to work towards that objective with the proviso that the MODL is prepared to enter into an open and transparent process with both lake property owners and local residents."

The group proposed the following principles:

1. The MODL demonstrates that it is committed to starting with a "clean slate" by rescinding its current decision to use the Veinotte Rd extension as its choice for providing public access.
2. The options selected for lake access will respect the rights of lakeshore private property owners to the use and enjoyment of their property and the lake.
3. The nature of the public access will not in any way depreciate/damage the lake environment.
4. The residents of both Chester and Lunenburg [municipalities] will be engaged in the process, since the natural lake environment does not reflect current administrative divisions.

Furthermore, the letter suggests several ways the municipality can work with residents to achieve a method of public access that caters to everyone's demands.

These ideas include the use of a survey or another mechanism to determine the level of public interest in public lake access and a meeting to discuss and reach consensus on the kind of public access seen to be desirable.

Next, the letter suggests MODL staff would prepare options with associated costs that satisfy the principles and the nature of the public access agreed to and a public meeting to discuss the options and provide further public input to Council to consider before making a decision.

"The foregoing represents what we feel could be a productive approach/process to allow MODL to move away from the current fractured and divisive situation that we regrettably find ourselves engaged in. We hope that you and the members of MODL Council will receive this proposal in the positive manner in which we are advancing it," the letter says.

"We of course would be happy to appear before Council or in any other forum that would allow us to more fully discuss the views presented in this letter and to enable us to collectively move forward."

Among the 10 signees included, but was not limited to, representatives of the Headwaters Park Homeowners Association, the Sherbrooke Forest Association and the Russell's Cove Road Association.

SWEeper TRUCK FIRE

Bridgewater's insurance company was deciding last week whether or not the town's sweeper truck is a write-off after fire broke out in the vehicle on June 6. Bridgewater's only road-cleansing vehicle cost about $225,000. The man driving the equipment noticed smoke coming from the engine compartment and manoeuvred into the Bridgewater Memorial Arena parking lot where fire crews dealt with the situation. The driver wasn't hurt.

Man injured in vehicle crash

FARMVILLE — Authorities are investigating an off-highway vehicle crash which occurred near Blockhouse over the weekend.

A man in his 40s sustained a possible broken leg, in addition to a potential back injury, as a result of the June 7 all-terrain vehicle wreck.

Emergency crews, including Blockhouse volunteer firefighters, were summoned around 9 p.m. to Back Street No. 2 Road in Farmville.

Paramedics assessed a man on scene and transported him by ambulance to South Shore Regional Hospital in Bridgewater.

Alcohol is believed to have been a factor in the crash.

Lunenburg has birthday bash

Heritage town celebrates 261 years

Lunenburg celebrated its 261st birthday with a plethora of weekend activities from June 6 to 8.

The celebration got underway on Friday night with a social event at the Captain Angus Walters House which mixed the indispensables of both rum and chowder.

Among the other weekend events were a road race, dog show, dory races, musical entertainment and children's activities.

Learning the ropes

Lunenburg hosts sixth junior firefighters training day

By ROBERT HIRTLE
rhirtle@southshorenov.ca

LUNENBURG — They came from far and wide to live and learn the skills necessary to become volunteer firefighters.

On May 24, members of the Lunenburg and District Fire Department hosted their sixth annual junior firefighters training weekend at the department's Starr Street training facility.

Event spokesperson, Lunenburg Deputy Chief Dave Robb, said that activities involved training at four different stations which featured vehicle extrication, basic firefighting, a live fire and a tower rescue.

Each evolution was scenario-based, and trained firefighters and instructors were on hand to ensure things were done properly and safely.

"For the live fire, what we do is burn two vans out and we use wood to build them up, then the kids have the opportunity to put them out the way any other person does," Deputy Chief Robb explained. "On the tower, we do rope rescue training with rappelling, Stokes basket and setting up all the ropes for a rescue."

Participants had an opportunity to train at each station and were not asked to do anything they did not feel comfortable doing.

"It's all hands-on stuff, the fun stuff, and there's not a lot of lecture," the deputy chief said.

Multiple departments from the region took part in the event, as well as several from outside the immediate area.

"We've basically got a two-to-one ratio, for every two kids we've got a leader," he said.

A committee began preparing for the event months ago and Deputy Chief Robb said different departments are asked to do specific things.

"For example, Dayspring looks after our live fire for a portion of the weekend. And they're doing rescue scenarios and darkness scenarios in the containers," he explained. "So they're able to crawl through there and learn what wearing a breathing apparatus is all about."

Each junior firefighter is outfitted with a complete suit of bunker gear and, for some who are new to the program in their respective departments, putting it on was a first-time experience.

"We accept kids from the age of 12 to 19 and, after 19, they join the active [program]," Deputy Chief Robb added.

10 Things

By KEITH CORCORAN
kcorcoran@southshorenov.ca

Bridgewater Police Chief John Collyer

Place of residence: Crouses Settlement Age: 50

1. Participates in military reenactments in Queens County, portraying a member of the Kings Orange Rangers loyalist regiment.
2. Is "a little bit colour-blind" which sidelined a potential career in the Air Force.
3. A sports car enthusiast. Owns a 2006 Pontiac Solstice.
4. Fan of the drama television series "The Walking Dead." "It appeals to me. When you spend as much time thinking about what do I do in terms of disaster, the whole zombie apocalypse is a fun thing to think about," he said with a laugh.
5. Commandeered by patrolling military police while serving as a cadet officer in Greenwood as authorities probed some late-night high jinks. "I was detained, identified and admonished not to run in the future."
6. Despite not knowing how to swim, he supervised a program involving lifeguards. "I can swim now, but I don't like the water."
7. Again, while a cadet officer in Greenwood, participated in a prank that put a senior officer's locked car in the middle of an area where soldiers commonly form up.
8. Was involved in a couple of archaeological digs in the province as part of his anthropology studies while in university.
9. Held a part-time job working a hot air balloon attraction at an auto dealership.
10. While en route to the city to pick up a service revolver, he got into a car wreck in his personal vehicle. It was his second day on the job as a Bridgewater police officer. "It wasn't my fault, though," he said of the accident. "The school bus cut me off."

Coming out party

Harbour View Haven takes on butterfly project

By ROBERT HIRTLE
rhirtle@southshorenov.ca

LUNENBURG —Residents of Harbour View Haven just experienced a cheery portent of spring's arrival.

Despite this year's trend of cooler than normal weather, some butterflies — which typically awake once the weather finally warms — were able to escape their cocoons a bit earlier than usual, thanks to the cozy confines of the Lunenburg home for special care.

The story began one day last fall when the facility received a fax from an Ontario company called Butterflies and Roses asking if they'd like to order some butterflies.

The proposal soon reached the desk of Meghan Walsh, director of therapeutic services, who felt raising the tiny creatures would be good therapy for some of the residents.

"They're Painted Lady butterflies and they arrived to us November 7 in the mail," she explains. "We've been rearing them ever since."

Of course, the insects did not land at Harbour View in a full grown state. Instead, they were in the form of caterpillars, each living in its own little cup with an artificial diet included to provide nourishment until they formed their own chrysalis.

"They shed their skins," Ms Walsh says. "And you have to keep cleaning out their waste so they keep eating their food."

Resident Walter MacLeod took the lead in looking after the creatures' well-being and, with help from Ms Walsh, put the formed chrysalises in butterfly cages.

"You tape them to the bottom, then flip it upside down so that they're hanging," Ms Walsh explains. "They were supposed to emerge within 12 days; however, they emerged within three or four."

Along with being a science project for residents, Grade 6 students at Bluenose Academy were also included in the process and, while they missed the butterflies actual "coming out" because of its premature nature, some were able to visit the facility May 26 and get a first-hand look at them flying about their cages.

"They were really tickled pink," Ms Walsh says. "It's a first for us, our very own butterfly family."

The butterflies were released into nature May 28.

"It's a first for us, our very own butterfly family."

CHESTER — Students at Chester Area Middle School recently showcased a new mural in honour of Mi'kmaq heritage and culture.

On June 4, the mural of the Mi'kmaq Grand Council flag was presented to an assembly of 400 people.

"All around the boarder we put painted images of petroglyphs that are found down in Keji and Lake McGowan and there's one in Bedford," says teacher and organizer, Julie Chandler.

The students began making the mural in the fall to replace the Mi'kmaq Grand Council flag that hung in the lobby for years, but after the fire marshal indicated those fabrics were not allowed on walls, the school decided to find another way of honouring First Nations culture.

"We just really want a welcome symbol in our lobby when you first come in," says Ms Chandler.

"It took until June for all of the pieces to fall into place, to actually learn enough to start creating the artwork, to assembling the artwork."

During the assembly, Elder Rose Morris of the Acadia First Nation carried out the smudging ceremony on the mural and spoke to the students about its significance.

"She was sent to the Shubenacadie residential school — she's a survivor of the residential school system," says Ms Chandler.

"She's a very well-respected elder." Shon Myra and Andrew Francis of Acadia First Nation were also in attendance, as well as drummer and signer Peggie Wentzell of Acadia First Nation.

Students gave presentations about petroglyphs, which they had learned about during class trips to Kejimikujik National Park.

In fact, the day after the assembly they were headed off at 5:30 a.m. for another trip to the park.

The crowd watched and listened to presentations on pow wows, singing and drumming, and had traditional food including luski bread and salmon, which a group of students assisted in preparing.

Ms Chandler, who is also the race relations, cross cultural understanding and human rights (RCH) liaison for the school, says she feels Mi'kmaq culture is underrepresented in the school system and the mural is one step forward in creating a more welcoming environment.

"I just feel like it's very important that all people feel that they can be themselves at school — that you don't have to keep something back — they can bring who they are to the table."

Bridgewater's own American Medal of Honor recipient

Retired soldier buried in Brookside Cemetery in 1907

By REBECCA DINGWELL
rdingwell@southshorenov.ca

Although there are many soldiers buried at Bridgewater's Brookside Cemetery, only one of them was awarded the American Medal of Honor.

His name was Capt. Lee Nutting. Peter Oickle, a local historian, is very familiar with Capt. Nutting. In addition to being chairman of the DesBrisay Museum commission and archivist at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, he also hosts cemetery tours during certain times of the year.

While there is not much information available on Capt. Nutting's early life, it can be said with some certainty that he was born in New York state on October 14, 1837.

"He enlisted in the 61st Regiment very early in the American Civil War," says Mr. Oickle.

The year was 1861 and Lee Nutting first enlisted as a private. According to Mr. Oickle, he "rose quickly through the ranks."

It took him just three weeks to be promoted from private to sergeant.

Bart Armstrong, a historian in Victoria, British Columbia, speculated that perhaps this was the result of previous time served. However, this could not be confirmed.

The soldier was later promoted to second lieutenant and then to captain.

Oddly enough, the battle that would lead to the Medal of Honor for Capt. Nutting would also lead to his discharge. At the time, Capt. Nutting was a brevetted colonel.

"He would have the title in the field, but he wouldn't have the pay rank that would go with it," Mr. Oickle explains.

In 1864, the conflict that would be known as the Battle of the Wilderness took place. The Confederate forces of around 66,000 troops and the Union forces of around 122,000 troops came together around Todd's Tavern. "The tavern" is a small area in the southern states about 60 miles south of Washington, DC.

"It was a very difficult area to fight in because there was a lot of brush," says Mr. Oickle.

The day Capt. Nutting became severely wounded, he was in charge of the colour party.

"As the colour party, you are not permitted to drop the colours and lose them," says Mr. Oickle.

The Northern army was under siege and Capt. Nutting led a charge. During the charge, he was wounded several times. Then, a musket ball struck him in his left breast pocket.

It would have killed him - except that pocket was where Capt. Nutting kept his Bible.

Mr. Oickle confirms that, according to Capt. Nutting's great-grandson, the story about the Bible is true. Not only that, but the live-saving Bible is still kept in the Nutting family.

Although Capt. Nutting survived, he was sufficiently wounded to receive a discharge and a pension from the military.

In 1893, Capt. Nutting was awarded the Medal of Honor. The citation - provided by the DesBrisay Museum - referred to his bravery at Todd's Tavern. It reads: "At the head of his men, [Capt. Nutting] continued to valiantly lead against a murderous fire, until he fell severely wounded."

So, what brought this war hero to Bridgewater?

Capt. Nutting's oldest surviving daughter, Grace, was married to a man named Philip Moore. They lived in the Bridgewater area due to Mr. Moore's involvement with the MicMac Mines. Capt. Nutting and his wife, Arrietta, came to Bridgewater to be with their daughter.

Both Arrietta and Lee Nutting spent their summers in Bridgewater for the remainder of their lives.

Mrs. Nutting was killed in an accident near the MicMac Mines in 1907. Two wagons collided and Mrs. Nutting died when the one in which she was seated overturned.

The year following, Capt. Nutting died on the front lawn of what was then Clark's Hotel.

His obituary, which was printed in the Bridgewater Bulletin, said "[Grace] Nutting, becoming alarmed at her father's appearance, called for help and when Mr. Clark arrived on the scene the Colonel was breathing his last."

He was 71 years old.

According to Mr. Oickle, the place in New York where Capt. Nutting ran his feed and grain store is now a tavern. Strangely appropriate, seeing that he earned his status as a hero at Todd's Tavern.

Summer camps planned for Heckmans Island

Sessions will have environmental themes

By ROBERT HIRTLE
rhirtle@southshorenov.ca

HECKMAN'S ISLAND — For the second consecutive year, Coastal Action in Lunenburg is running a series of environmentally themed day camps for youth this summer at the Morton Centre on Heckmans Island.

Dubbed adventure day camps in the natural world, the week-long, half-day sessions are geared to help young people connect with nature in a fun, memorable and meaningful way.

"It's really about focusing on appreciation and engaging the curiosity of kids in nature," explains co-facilitator Megan Beliveau. "From that, we then focus on the science aspects of nature."

Two Eco Scientists camps will be offered - half-day sessions from July 7 through 11 for children ages six to nine and all-day sessions July 21 through 25 for kids ages 10 to 13.

Those sessions will give youth an opportunity to become scientists — conducting experiments, exploring the natural world and discovering the beauty mysteries of the great outdoors. The goal is to hone scientific skills and learn how to adapt behaviour to have less impact on the environment.

The second camp, dubbed pirate's cove, is for ages six to nine and will run half-days from July 28 through August 1.

It offers young pirate adventurers an opportunity to explore the area's islands and coves, learn about a strange new world of natural treasures and find out what it takes to be a modern-day, Earth-friendly pirate.

Two other youth-oriented events are being offered this summer, the first being the cycle savers club for youth ages 10 to 13 which runs from August 18 through 22.

Participants will learn the "ancient arts," and decipher mysterious codes to see how the earth's cycles work. Through this action packed, hands-on program, they become cycle savers who appreciate, understand and respect the cycles of life.

The final camp is dubbed "TIME: an environmental leadership camp," and is open to teens aged 15 to 18.

An overnight camp which takes place August 11 to 13, TIME allows high school students the opportunity to reflect, practice and implement leadership skills through team building initiatives in a natural environment.

Participants are expected to engage in meaningful experiences as they develop personal goals with respect to their role in a sustainable future.

"We're really excited about our second summer, because we had some really good feedback from last year," says Ms Beliveau.

The Morton Centre is a 99-acre former farm located at the end of Monk Point Road.

It was purchased in 1965 by Dr. Harry Morgan and his wife, Rachel, who in turn donated it to Acadia University in 1995 to be used for environmental research and education.

Driver retires from Senior Wheels at age 80

Bill Rhodenizer had been with organization for 15 years

By REBECCA DINGWELL
rdingwell@southshorenov.ca

After driving Bridgewater's Senior Wheels bus for about 15 years, Bill Rhodenizer is settling into full retirement at age 80.

Shortly after Mr. Rhodenizer first retirement from his automotive business, he was asked by a member of the Golden K if he would drive for Senior Wheels.

"I was [working] with people all my working life," said Mr. Rhodenizer.

"To walk away from that, and just go home and sit - well, you'd go crazy."

The Senior Wheels Association was formed in 1992. It provides free transportation Monday through Saturday to those who need help getting around.

Mr. Rhodenizer drove the bus on Fridays, and he was also able to do maintenance on the vehicles he drove.

"It was a learning experience. I really enjoyed doing it."

He's choosing to retire now because the work was becoming increasingly challenging - especially when he had to handle wheelchairs.

"I figured I'd give it up while I was ahead of the game," said Mr. Rhodenizer, adding he really enjoyed the people he got to work with.

"I never had trouble with nobody, I don't think."

Mr. Rhodenizer is passionate about Senior Wheels because he knows there are, "People who wouldn't get out," without it.

"People have to go to the hospital two or three times a week. If you had to [pay] to go three times a week - that's your grocery money."

Overall, Mr. Rhodenizer had no complaints about his time with the company, although he often found scheduling difficult. Drivers generally had 20 minutes to transport clients, with an additional 20 if the person had a disability.

"If you picked a person up on one block and took them to another block, you didn't need 20 minutes," said Mr. Rhodenizer.

However, accommodating people in between the scheduled time was challenging when everyone wanted to go home at the same time.

"You just had to gear it."

Now, Mr. Rhodenizer is going to have to get used to Friday mornings without Senior Wheels.

"I miss the people. I miss them a lot." Meanwhile, around the time of Mr. Rhodenizer's departure, something new arrived at Senior Wheels - a bus.

The new bus is equipped with a wheelchair lift and replaces the previous bus, which has been in use for nine years.

Hospital auxiliary donates to South Shore Health fund

The May meeting of the Fishermen's Memorial Hospital (FMH) auxiliary was held on May 29 in the assembly room of FMH. The president, Anne Cosgrove, welcomed all.

The craft festival committee reported on the auxiliary bake table at the craft festival on July 12 and 13. Members were asked to sign up to work at the table.

The golf tournament committee reported September 15 is the date for the tournament. As usual, it will be held at the Bluenose Golf Club. This is a very popular event. The money raised this year will purchase a special tourniquet for the ambulatory care unit.

The auxiliary has donated $500 to Meals on Wheels.

The 200 Club draws will start in June. The gift shop reported used books and knitted sets for babies continue to be very popular. The auxiliary is very appreciative of the members and community for their donations of these items.

The FMH auxiliary will be giving $15,000 to the South Shore Health bursary program, which is supported by the Health Services Foundation, the Queens General Hospital Foundation and the Fishermen's auxiliary.

The committee chairmen were asked to write up information on their committees to be included in a new information package for members.

Members who attended the Western Region Meeting in Kingston reported on that day and the speakers.

The next meeting is scheduled for June 26 at 9:30 a.m. in the assembly room at FMH. New members are welcome.

News from Rosedale New Horizons

Our senior's club met at the hall on May 21 with 52 members answering roll call. Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Word was received of the passing of Lena Bruhm. She was a former member of our club. Our sympathy to her family.

It was also reported our treasurer, Paulette Boston, is a patient at the Halifax hospital. We wish her a speedy return to better health soon. In her absence Carolyn Dauphinee will look after the treasurers' job.

The craft sale on May 3 was successful, even though attendance was small. Peggy Smith was the winner of the wool blanket we sold tickets on.

Birthday greetings were extended to two of our members celebrating their birthdays — Gladys Veinot and Wilfred Joudrey. The latter was presented with a lovely birthday cake nicely decorated by her granddaughter, who happens to be a 4-H member.

Since there was very little business to be discussed, the nickel pot was passed and the meeting was adjourned. We then enjoyed our social time playing bingo and cards followed by delicious refreshments as usual.

At our next meeting in early June, there were only 32 members who answered roll call. Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Due to illness of our treasurer, and the changeover to a new treasurer, there was no financial report. Hopefully things will be up to date by our next meeting.

Paulette is at home from the hospital and is recuperating at home. We wish her well. It was also reported that Sandra Gosling has had knee replacement at the Kentville hospital. We wish her well too.

There was no new business, except the fact at our next meeting on June 18 the new lease for the hall is expected to be signed for another 35 years. At this time Mr. Hiram Carver will be a guest and will talk about the first days when the Masons and seniors reached the agreement for our club to use their hall. This should be very interesting as many of us were not seniors at that time. We hope to have a good attendance at this meeting.

As there was nothing else to be discussed the nickel pot was passed and our meeting adjourned, followed by the usual social time and a great lunch.

Students win poster contest

Finalists included Tyler Deyotte, Katlyn Grimm and Brandon Robar.

Brandon's poster was forwarded to the district level of competition to be judged against students from across Nova Scotia.

Seventy-five local students presented colourful and detailed messages on the prevention of drug and alcohol use as part of the competition.

Recent visitors at the home of Ann Scott and Gene Veinotte were Kendall Scott, Dieppe, New Brunswick; Melinda Scott and Jeff Landry, Halifax; and Gunnar Merback, from Germany.

On May 17, Marie Aulenback attended the first birthday party for her great-granddaughter, Belle McKone, which was held at the Beaverbank Kinsac Community Centre. On her return home she stopped in East Chester to visit her friend Gladys Rafuse.

Welcome to the folks who are coming back to their summer homes here in the community.

How to create flowerbeds around trees

Keeping flowerbeds underneath trees can pose quite a challenge for gardeners — there is little light and water, poor soil, and too many roots. However, it is possible to adapt to these conditions and to find plants that can flourish in them. Lack of light is the major drawback to creating flowerbeds around trees. The best solution is pruning. Removing the lowest branches will allow the sun to reach any plants. These few hours of sunshine are sufficient for many varieties.

Trees are ruthless when it comes to water. Most rain water is intercepted by a tree's leaves and never reaches the ground. What's more, tree roots absorb huge quantities of water from the ground, so it is crucial to dig very wide, deep holes when planting flowers at the base of a tree.

Be sure to add compost to the garden soil and water regularly during hot weather. Fertilizers will also have to be added on a regular basis in order to ensure that your plants flourish.

Many perennials do well under trees. Look for asters, bergenia, lily of the valley and hellebore. As for annuals, opt for foxglove, impatiens and lobelia. Nicely pruned boxwood is an attractive shrub that also gives good results.

Removing the lowest branches will allow some sun to reach your plants.

Growing roses is not as complicated as many people think.

Roses aren't that complicated

Elderly gardeners love saying that flowerbeds without roses aren't true flowerbeds! However, many amateur gardeners decline to grow roses out of the belief that they require too much care. And yet, roses are hardy and are accepting of the vagaries of Mother Nature.

To ensure that the queen of flowers flourishes throughout the summer months, a gardener need only follow a few basic rules.

Compost

Roses flourish easily in good garden soil. They also grow well in other types of soil, as long as they are enriched with compost. A generous application — about 10 centimetres — at the beginning of the spring will give good results. In addition, compost lightens heavy soils and gives consistency to light, sandy soils. Avoid applying compost during the growing season, as it could harm young shoots.

Fertilizers

Products specifically designed for roses are available on the market. One application before the flowering season will encourage blooms. Deadhead faded blooms in order to extend the flowering season.

Weeding

The soil around rose bushes must be kept clear, as they do not like having to compete with other plants. Hoeing the soil regularly will allow rainwater to infiltrate more easily. If you are thinking of applying a layer of mulch in order to keep the ground moist and prevent weeds from growing, be sure to avoid using pine bark mulch; it will add too much acidity to the soil.

Watering

Even though it's extremely rare for a rose bush to die of thirst, it is still important to water it during heat waves in order to encourage new growth and lovely blooms.

Photographer wins national competition

Kas Stone captured image in Riverport

By STACEY COLWELL
scolwell@southshorenov.ca

For the second time in as many years, a Dublin Shore woman has won the Canadian Association for Photographic Arts postcard competition.

Kas Stone captured 'Evening on the Dock' in February while giving a visiting shutterbug friend a whirlwind tour of her favourite places.

"We spent that day poking along the shore with our cameras between Lunenburg and Liverpool and just happened to hit Riverport as the sun went down," said Ms Stone.

"It cast a beautiful warm glow across the ice and the wood of the dock — just for a few minutes until it sank below the horizon — and we were frozen again. It was a matter of being at the right place at the right time, and finding an interesting graphic shape highlighted by beautiful light."

The gallery owner and workshop teacher focuses her photographer primarily on landscapes and seascapes.

"I have always loved the outdoors and been fascinated by the natural world and the geological origins of the landscape, so ever since childhood I have spent my holidays paddling, hiking, cycling and camping — often in quite remote areas — and almost always in eastern Canada."

A Dartmouth native, she spent much of her adult life in Ontario before moving back to her home province.

"I have moved back and forth several times over the decades, always torn between my family and the place that I love. When I went to Ontario last time in 1994 I didn't intend to remain so long, but life and work got in the way and it took a while to realize that I really needed to be back by the ocean again," said Ms Stone.

"My son now lives in B.C., so I wondered briefly about moving to the west coast instead, but there is something about the Atlantic coast and the east-coast lifestyle that draw me back every time."

"It was a matter of being at the right place at the right time, and finding an interesting graphic shape highlighted by beautiful light."

Kas Stone

"Evening on the Dock" recently won the Canadian Association for Photographic Arts' annual postcard competition.

She's also drawn to the picturesque beauty of the area.

"We are so lucky to have Fundy's amazing tides and salt marshes, the Annapolis Valley's gentle farmland, the battered Atlantic coast from Yarmouth to Canso, the inviting beaches of Northumberland, and the spectacular highlands, cliffs and valleys of Cape Breton — all within a day's drive."

Ms Stone began taking photography seriously about 15 years ago when she required pictures to illustrate her articles and guidebooks about paddling and hiking.

"I discovered there was much to learn, both about camera technique and about post-processing with Photoshop, so I read lots of books, joined my local camera club and spent countless hours practicing. I am still learning."

Besides winning the Canadian Association for Photographic Arts postcard competition the past two years, Ms Stone earned an honourable mention with "Blue Bottles and Old Boat," and has received multiple awards in the association's greeting and note card competition, including best in show in 2013.

Her work is displayed at various galleries on the South Shore.

St. Mark's Place, a renovated church in Middle Lahave, will be holding an immersive dance party on June 13.

St. Mark's hosting art dance party

Former church now a venue for events

By LUKE KENNY
lkenny@southshorenov.ca

MIDDLE LAHAVE - When it comes to attending church, you don't usually think of going there to party.

However, that's exactly what's happening at St. Mark's Place in Middle Lahave on June 13.

The former church has been refurbished into a venue for concerts, weddings and other events, and on June 13 it will host an "art dance party," which is the brainchild of a group of loop-based funk musicians from Fredericton comprised of Stephen Lewis, Jonah Hache and DJ MKW, who are touring the east coast this summer with live alternative artists such as Legasee and No Fun Zone.

The reason organizers wanted to bring this group in was to have an immersive party experience.

It's a part of trying to have a place for young people with changing tastes to have a good time in their own area, property manager Clayton Banfield said.

"Typically you go to a bar, they're up on the stage and you're down on the dance floor. That's still what's going to happen but while you're dancing and milling about and talking with your friends, you'll have artists set up and they'll be painting, creating works of art."

There will be lights and lasers, and they have projectors, so there will be projections on the wall and on the ceiling.

"So its this dynamic environment that's swirling around and its very much more enhanced than a typical event. These are the sort of things that I'm trying to create. These guys just happen to be on the same wavelength as me and they kind of have this package deal."

Mr. Banfield has held two other events at St. Mark's with the same sort of atmosphere, having hosted video jockeys in to have video loops playing while the DJs would be playing electronic dance music.

"I've had different types of performers working the floor. They're called poi, or flow artists. They're the people that juggle light. They'll have a hula hoop that's all made of LEDs or they have these lights that change colour on the end of a string but they'll be whipping them around. It's the sort of stuff you'd see in busking."

Outdoors, they do that with fire, while inside it's all neon or LED.

"I'm trying to get educated about what other kind of performers there are, so that when we have events in the future that I can maybe work in and keep it dynamic and alive and different."

Most of the cultural events happening in the area are very traditional, like Folk Harbour Festival and Rocking The Bush.

"It's still that traditional thing where you go to a festival and camp out and have fun. Those events are great, but there are others things that we can do that can attract more of the youth. They're more into the electronic dance music and art and the live performances that make you feel like you're a part of the show," Mr. Banfield said.

"I think there's a wonderful opportunity for doing things like that and St. Mark's is an awesome location. It's a safe place where they can come and do that."

The reception for the events he has held have been great, Mr Banfield said, and he plans to host more in the future.

MARQUEE

Abbey comes to Mahone Bay

The Mahone Bay Settlers Museum and Suttles and Seawinds have teamed up to create a Downtown Abbey garden party this weekend.

The event is scheduled for the Suttles and Seawinds garden on June 14.

Volunteers wearing costumes from the era will represent some of the characters in the beloved PBS British dramatic series, which is now in its fourth season.

Patrons of the tea are asked to wear their most divine hat.

Schubertiad time is here

Schubertiad is the time when Schubert would invite friends to his home to be entertained.

Therefore, family and friends are invited to Skinner's Studio in Lunenburg to enjoy spring Schubertiad music for young children and elementary students on June 13, junior students on June 14, intermediate and senior students on June 15 and adult students at the home of Nancy Schandall on June 15.

Exhibit at Shoreline Gallery

A new exhibit is in place at the South Shore Regional Hospital's Shoreline Gallery.

Twenty-three local artists are currently represented for the month of June.

Among the featured artists are Teddy Sologuk, who works in oils and has finely detailed paintings of wide ranging subjects.

Ursula Brooke's colourful acrylics will also be featured. Her paintings of gardens and natural scenes are in a more free flowing style.

Atlantica hosting concert

Jennah Barry and the Modern Grass will be performing at the Atlantica Oak Island Resort and Conference Centre on June 14 as part of the Treasures by the Sea concert series.

Ms Barry's debut album, "Young Men," is written from the perspective of a small town in a big city.

Opera in Lunenburg

Maritime Concert Opera will be touring the South Shore with its production of Strauss' "Die Fledermaus" (The Bat). The cast will perform the English translation.

"It's all fun," Artistic Director Nina Scott-Stoddart said in a release. "There are a few of the most famous operetta numbers ever written, especially in the second act."

The rhapsody quintet will act as the orchestra for the Lunenburg performance on June 21 at Central United Church.

Tea and Biscuits to perform benefit concert

By ROBERT HIRTLE
rhirtle@southshorenov.ca

Tea and Biscuits, a choir of 30 talented and enthusiastic young singers from the local area, will host an evening of Broadway and Folksy Choral Harmonies and Original Tunes on June 22 at St. John's Lutheran Church in Mahone Bay.

The choir, which includes young women between the ages of nine and 19, meet each Monday evening for tea and song at Director Leslee Barry's home.

As has been their custom, they are presenting this concert as a fundraiser for local food banks.

"This spirited choir is polishing up a lush program of snappy folk and gorgeous choral arrangements, all of which will be melodious and pleasantly familiar to the listener," said Ms Barry.

"Special guest Jennah Barry will be sharing her growing repertoires of beautiful songs, harmonized by the girls."

Choral selections include works by composers such as Pete Seeger, Paul Simon, Joni Mitchell and Allister MacGillvary, with arrangements by the likes of Stuart Calvert, Mark Hayes, Phillip Kern and Mac Huff.

Instrumentalists performing include Darby Goode on violin, Shelley Mann and Kathryn Wagner on flute, trumpeter Holly Lohnes, Graham Duncan on string bass, cellist Evan Chung and percussionist Sid Kalyan.

Jane Kristenson will provide principal accompaniment on the piano.

Along with Tea and Biscuits, Ms Barry also directs the St. John's Lutheran mother and daughter choir, and between the two groups they have staged a total of 14 concerts since 2005, all in aid of local food banks.

"Besides the reward of stimulating a mix of young and mature community members to provide for charity it is equally rewarding to provide a platform for such young, talented musicians. This event is a win-win situation."

Musical director Leslee Barry, centre, joins the trio of, clockwise, from left, Erin Smith, Jessica Vaszily and Allison Clark, who are part of Tea and Biscuits, a choir of young singers in harmony who will present a concert in aid of local food banks, June 22 at St. John's Lutheran Church, Mahone Bay.

Hot pink and proud — or sometimes purple, or white or a combination — radishes are a joy.

Ravish your radish

Hot pink and proud — or sometimes purple, or white or a combination — radishes are a joy. With a growing season of only three weeks, they show up early in the summer and stay late in the fall.

Not only do they have a long harvest, but they're flexible in the kitchen. You can pickle them, bake them, sauté them, grate them into a salad or eat them raw like a carrot. They span a wide range of taste sensations, from spicy and crisp when raw, to mild and creamy when pan-fried or baked.

Radishes keep best if you separate the greens from the roots right away. Freeze cooked, plain or in stock. And don't just toss those greens in the compost — you can wash them off and eat them like spinach. I like to chop mine up and stir-fry them with a bit of oil and spice.

Radishes in Rosemary Butter

Ingredients:

- 6 tablespoons butter, room temperature
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 3 tablespoons cream
- 1 tablespoon minced fresh rosemary
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 3 large bunches of radishes, trimmed and chopped into bite-sized pieces

Directions:

Heat a sauté pan over medium heat and add butter. Cook until browned, stirring, about five minutes. Remove from heat. Add lemon juice, cream, rosemary, salt and pepper, and whisk together. Add radishes and toss. Transfer to a rimmed baking sheet.

Grill under broiler until tender, five to seven minutes. Serve hot.

Balsamic Honey Radishes

Ingredients:

ELISABETH BAILEY
Betty's Bite

- 1 tablespoon melted butter
- 2 tablespoons honey
- 1 tablespoon balsamic vinegar
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 2 large bunches radishes, trimmed and chopped into bite-sized pieces

Directions...

Place a cast iron frying pan on a middle rack of the oven and heat to 450°F.

Combine butter, honey, vinegar, salt and pepper in a bowl. Add radish pieces and toss to coat.

Spicy Radish Carrot Slaw

slaws — this root vegetable combination can hold its own against any traditional coleslaw in Lunenburg County.

Ingredients:

- ½ tablespoon hot sauce
- ¼ cup lemon juice
- ¾ cup minced fresh parsley
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2/3 cup olive oil
- 4 large carrots, peeled and shredded
- 2 cups peeled shredded radishes

Directions...

Combine hot sauce, lemon juice, parsley, salt and olive oil in a blender and puree.

Combine vinaigrette, shredded carrots and shredded radishes in a serving bowl and toss. Cover and refrigerate for at least 15 minutes, toss again, and serve.

Artist wins competition

By ROBERT HIRTLE
rhirtle@southshorenov.ca

A local artist has been named winner of the Canadian Society for Civil Engineering [CSCE] emerging artist competition.

Corey Isenor of LaHave picked up the $2,500 top prize for his photographic work "Rock Pile," which has been awarded to the public sector organization that CSCE believes has demonstrated leadership in the field of sustainable infrastructure in Canada.

That recipient, Waterfront Toronto, received the work during the CSCE Annual Conference held in Halifax May 30.

The idea of the competition is to bring valuable exposure to emerging artists from the Maritime provinces during and after the annual event.

Doug Salloum, CSCE's Executive Director, said that today's infrastructure decisions determine how well future generations live.

"Planners, architects, environmentalists, economists, civic groups and civil engineers all have a role in building the future, but so do artists. Artists have always helped society to understand itself. Artists have the unique ability to express what most of us can only hint at, in this case a future that we can be proud to have contributed to."

The winner of the contest was chosen by a panel of curators and artists who reviewed artistic submissions from across Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island.

From those entries they also chose nine finalists who will vie for the $500 people's choice award via an on-line vote which will be combined with votes cast at the conference.

Three of those artists hail from Lunenburg County: Hangama Amiri and Samantha Battaglia, who are both from Lunenburg, and Bridgewater's Ambera Wellman.

The public can vote for their favourite work by visiting <http://www.artists.csce.ca>.

Voting closes midnight June 13.

Meditation event planned

By REBECCA DINGWELL
rdingwell@southshorenov.ca

Margaret Drescher of Windhorse Farm is presenting a workshop on meditation at the Shambhala Centre in Mahone Bay.

Ms Drescher calls it "The Art of Being Human," and she will be teaching both walking and sitting meditation.

"Our meditation practice is based on not secluding ourselves," said Ms Drescher.

"We teach socially engaged meditating so we can be part of our society in a mindful and aware way."

Ms. Drescher said meditation is not a religious practice, but focusing on, "Being present to who we are."

The program includes an organic catered lunch, and it will be a social event as well as a class.

"It's not just sitting in one place," said Ms Drescher.

"It's also talking about ... 'How could this be applicable in my life?'"

The two-day workshop is scheduled to begin on June 13.

Park View, Hebbville win banners

By LUKE KENNY

lkenny@southshorenw.ca

It was a successful weekend for local schools at the Nova Scotia School Athletic Federation track and field championships in Sydney on June 6 and 7.

Park View Education Centre was the top overall Division 1 school and Hebbville Academy won the junior division.

The team emphasis is what Park View track coach Dean McDow wanted his athletes to focus on, and that strategy proved successful.

"Everyone performed really well up (to) and beyond their potential, so when they come home with an overall Division 1 [championship], it's a pretty impressive feat, especially since we're a small Division 1 school, compared to some of the big schools around the province."

He was also impressed by the performance despite his team's long trip to Cape Breton.

"They overcame those little obstacles and really peaked their performances at the right time and had a great two days."

He said the Panthers benefit from having strong feeder schools.

"The coaches in those schools do a really good job of promoting kids at the entry level, getting them going. For us, we try to maintain that when they all come together."

In fact, the Panthers also benefit from the strength of the sport across the South Shore.

"It's just such a strong track area. I think you might take it for granted when you're here locally, but when you go away to a provincial meet and on the podium are three kids from Bridgewater in some events, it's quite impressive."

Among the standout individual performers for Park View included girls hurdles champion Jaimee Mulrooney, javelin gold medallist Logan Cleveland and Jake Langille, who took home a high jump title.

Tobias Wolter was provincial champion for category in both the 1,500-metre and 3,000-metre races, while Allie Flower won her 400-metre division and the senior girls relay team won the 4x100-metre and the 4x400-metre relays.

Allison Chandler won the intermediate girls shot put.

Hebbville won the girls 4x400-metre relay and Cameron Whynot claimed the junior discus title.

'Jacks hold second overall pick in draft

By LUKE KENNY

lkenny@southshorenw.ca

The CIBC Wood Gundy Lumberjacks will be looking to add some depth to their lineup at this weekend's Maritime Hockey League entry draft in Summerside, Prince Edward Island.

The club has the second overall pick in the first round, behind an expansion team from St. Stephen, New Brunswick, and two selections each in the second and third rounds.

"That is by far the best of any team in the league," said General Manager Ken Petrie of the team's stockpile of early picks.

"Our coach and scout have been beating the brushes over the last little while. Our scout, Kevin Mitchell, is extraordinary when it comes to knowledge of teams, coaches and people of the various levels. He's a jewel and I'm very, very glad I have him."

The team wants to improve depth in several positions and this draft is an important step in doing that.

"At this particular point we only have one goaltender, the other has graduated, so we'll be looking for a top caliber goaltender," said Mr. Petrie.

"Last year we scored by committee, we didn't really have the guy that had the scoring talents, so we're out there looking for a goal scorer. Whether or not we'll find him in the draft, I don't know."

Those goal scorers may come in the form of two of their picks from the second round of last year's draft, who Mr. Petrie says will be crucial to the 2014-15 lineup.

Luc Poirier led the Nova Scotia Major Midget Hockey League in scoring in 2013/14 with 52 points for the Halifax McDonald's. He also led the league in assists with 37.

The other pick, Brett Tidman, led the same league in goals this year with 26 for the Valley Wildcats.

"They're ours, so they'll be at camp this year and will play a big role."

The Lumberjacks would also like to acquire another mature defenceman, which may have to be done through trades, but the club does not intend to trade away the second overall pick.

Draft selections may not always report to camp if opportunities such as prep school or the Quebec Major Junior Hockey League are available for draftees, so you have to be vigilant of that when making decisions, said Mr. Petrie, adding the team's first three selections will be crucial, but that they may use a couple picks to acquire players in trade they want.

"We've got a couple of names of guys that we'd like to have who we know would like to come and play here."

Each team also has two territorial picks in the draft which can be waived in lieu of later round picks, but the Lumberjacks expect to be using them this year after not doing so last year.

"They'll be two local boys."

Dave Waters of Fox Point competed in the ICF Para-Canoe World Cup event Hungary May 23-27.

Para-canoer competes in World Cup

By LUKE KENNY

lkenny@southshorenw.ca

A Fox Point resident who competed at the ICF Para-Canoe World Cup event in Hungary last month has his sights set on the 2016 Rio Paralympics and is looking to raise awareness for his neurological disease, CMT.

Dave Waters competed in two races in Hungary, picking up a silver medal in the Men's V1 200 TA class and third in the Men's V1 200m LTA class.

There are three classes of para-canoer racing: A for people who have full function of arm, TA for trunk and arm and LTA for leg, trunk and arm.

The 46 year old is competing in part for his own personal ambition to participate in the Paralympics, but also using this international exposure to raise awareness for the neurological disease he has.

"I have what's known as CMT [and] very few people have a clue what that is. I'm trying in some small way to raise the awareness of it."

CMT, which stands for Charcot-Marie-Tooth disease, is a type of peripheral neuropathy, meaning that nerves outside the brain and spinal cord are damaged.

"In my case, the signal that sends from the brain to the exterior parts of the body gets lost or delayed. People that know me, if I wasn't doing what I'm doing, they wouldn't have a clue that I have a disability, because I hide it quite well."

CMT rarely affects brain function but often causes weakness, numbness and pain in the hands, arms and feet. Painful muscular contractions and high arched feet are also associated with the disease.

He's been to three consecutive world championships, finishing top-10 in each, including third overall. He has also been to three Lake Placid International Regattas, which features racers from Canada and the U.S., where he has won every race he has competed but one.

Mr. Waters said he's proud to wear the maple leaf.

"It's certainly not the only reason I do it, but it's a significant part of it. It gives you a sense of pride to realize you're there representing your country, particularly when you're competing against the best guys in the world."

There are Canadian time-trials every year, typically in June. Mr. Waters was selected for the World Cup this year based on his results from last season.

The world championships are coming up this year in Moscow, and he'll go to Montreal on June 28 to race at trials, where he'll have to win two of three races and make time standards in order to qualify.

He also plans to compete at the Pan-Am championships in Mexico this September.

However, reaching the 2016 Rio Paralympics is his ultimate goal.

"It will be a challenge, I'll be honest. It will not be easy by any stretch. It's quite an onerous task to get through what needs to be done, and this is the last tune-up year."

Next year at world championships, Team Canada will have to qualify the boat first, and if that happens, Mr. Waters has to qualify to be in the boat.

"If we don't get the boat qualified next year, then we have another chance to get the boat qualified spring of 2016. They're only taking ten competitors per event, so that's ten people from around the world. It's no easy feat."

Billy Clarke traded to Wildcats

The Amherst Ramblers have dealt goaltender Billy Clarke to the Valley Wildcats for 7th and 8th round selections in the 2015 Maritime Hockey League entry draft.

The native of Dayspring, Nova Scotia, who will be entering his 20-year-old season this fall, has spent parts of the last four seasons in the league with the Bridgewater Lumberjacks and the Ram-

He was acquired by Amherst last November and between the two clubs posted a record of 4-19-2 with a 4.59 goals against average, .880 save percentage and one shutout.

The 2014 draft is scheduled for June 14 in Summerside, Prince Edward Island.

Ball tournament supports Relay for Life

By REBECCA DINGWELL
rdingwell@southshorenov.ca

For the past four years, Kaylen Bruce, Nick Foley and Danielle MacDonald have organized a ball tournament at the MARC ball fields as a Relay for Life fundraiser in memory of a schoolmate they lost to leukemia in Grade 12.

Even after the group of friends went their separate ways, they would always return to Bridgewater to participate in Relay for Life. Four years ago, they decided to start a tournament to raise money rather than entering the relay as a team.

"This whole community supports everything," said Ms. Bruce.

"We did not have to spend one dime on anything for the expenses for the tournament."

However, they approached this year's event a little differently than they have in the past.

"We actually decided to surprise a Relay for Life team instead of just giving it to the event," explained Ms. Bruce.

"Every other year, we've just given a speech at the relay and donated it."

Ms. Bruce and her team knew two brothers, Mike and Kyle Zinck, whose mother died of cancer last year. The brothers had set up a team called Margie's Roses.

"As soon as I heard that, we were delighted to give to a team," said Ms. Bruce.

"We wanted to be able to give to someone that we knew, something that hits close – and everybody knew Margie."

The Zinck brothers' team played in the tournament, and Ms. Bruce decided they would surprise them with the money at the end. To her surprise, Kyle ended up leaving the ball field before they had a chance to present the cheque.

"We had to call him and tell him his brother needed Tylenol," said Ms. Bruce.

Luckily, Kyle fell for the ruse and came back to the field where he and his brother were told their team would receive the money.

"I was pretty shocked," said Kyle.

"I cried a little bit."

Ms. Bruce says the event was especially emotional this year.

"A lot of people have lost people [to cancer] lately, in the past two years" said Ms. Bruce.

The ball tournament raised $3,552.

By STACEY COLWELL
scolwell@southshorenov.ca

The South Shore Surf grew exponentially during their inaugural season of offering the Steve Nash youth basketball program in Bridgewater.

Last fall, the program began with about 20 Grade Primary-aged children as part of an eight-week session.

"It appeared that the kids were enjoying program and we had a good idea of what we could do with the kids, so we decided to open the program up," said Bridgewater High School girls basketball coach Corey Lohnes, who spearheaded the initiation along with Park View Education Centre boys basketball coach Jamie Mason.

"Before we could get the information out to all the schools we had close to 60 kids registered."

The program recently ended for the season after offering three separate 45-minute-long weekly sessions on Sundays for children aged four to seven.

"We are already planning on running the program again in the fall and hope to have the ability to include even a higher number of kids."

Mr. Lohnes said he was impressed by how skilled the young players could be.

"We have the kids dribbling, passing and shooting, as well as a number of fun games to keep the kids moving."

Besides Mr. Lohnes and Mr. Mason, the coaching staff also includes Nick Saunders, Mustapha Maynard, Kelsey Bond, Courtney Baker and Julie Mason.

Steve Nash Youth Basketball is a national youth basketball initiative designed to develop fundamental skills, sportsmanship and a love for the game of basketball.

"The model for Steve Nash Youth Basketball was established after extensive research of existing community basketball programs from across North America," said the program's official web site.

"It follows the guidelines of Sport Canada's long term athlete development model ... The program is flexible in nature to allow local organizers to adapt the program and implement it in their community while following its principles and philosophies, as well as gaining valuable support and materials to run a successful program."

"Before we could get the information out to all the schools we had close to 60 kids registered."

Player of the week announced

Amy Bennett of the Mahone Bay Mariners under-10 girls team was named the South Shore District Soccer Association player of the week for June 1 to 7.

"Amy was nominated for her great saves in net during a wet and rainy game against West Nova Fuels on June 5," said a release.

The other nominees were included Charlie Whitty (West Nova Fuels under-10 boys), Sophia Hatt (West Nova Fuels under-10 girls) and Kelly Cunningham (West Nova Fuels senior women).

Each week this season, the association plans to celebrate a player from one of their clubs. To nominate a player or teammate, send a brief note to Alison at ali.sssoccer@gmail.com.

Nominations will be accepted up to Saturday at 8 p.m.

Torch run coming soon

Michelin's Special Olympics torch run is scheduled to make a stop in Bridgewater this month.

Raising awareness of the upcoming Nova Scotia Special Olympics Summer Games, Michelin is hosting three torch runs in communities throughout the province.

The Bridgewater event is scheduled for June 19, departing from Michelin gatehouse at 2 p.m.

Almost 2,000 runners and walkers are expected to participate in the annual torch runs.

The Summer Games are planned for June 20, 21 and 22 in Antigonish.

Bridgewater's outdoor pool is encouraging people to enjoy the best of the beach without getting sand in their shorts this summer.

"We have a children's play area, pool toys, shaded seating, bubble machine, sprinkler and more," said a release.

"Afternoon swims are being extended from one to two hours and our evening family and public swims will take place an hour earlier than last season, which we think families will enjoy."

1 and will officially kick off the season with a pool party on July 2.

"We will be running pool games and lots of fun on-land activities that we are sure everyone will enjoy."

There are also free public swims on Saturday evenings and an O'Regan's Subaru pirate adventure on July 16.

"We are holding other special events, including water sports and themed swims every Wednesday evening."

The pool will also offer an introduction to competitive swimming program and private and semi-private red Cross swim lessons.

O'Regan's Subaru rider Al Heubach put in a solid performance in Category C at the Brooklyn Road Race, finishing in tenth place.

Cyclists compete in Quebec

After a three-week layoff, the 2014 Bicycle Nova Scotia road racing season continued on June 1 with a road race held in Brooklyn, Nova Scotia.

Ten riders from O'Regan's Subaru Cycling took part in the event and the team showed up hoping to keep their string of podium finishes going.

In category A, O'Regan's rider John Archibald had to fend for himself as his three A team mates were all at the GP Charlevoix stage race in Quebec. John hung in there and managed to finish with the main group.

The Category B race saw Colin Ward win his third straight B race. It was close this time, with a 12-man sprint and Colin nipping second-place Chris Hawkins by a wheel length at the line. Tim Brooks moved up to category B for this race and finished just behind Colin in the sprint in eighth.

Category C was the largest field with over 40 riders. With five km to go the field was cut down to about 25 riders. There were a lot of attacks on the last two hills before the finish that strung out the field even more. Rod Rawding, coming off the flu, managed a fifth-place finish and Al Heubach came in just behind him in tenth.

Janelle Knickle finished second in the female category B.

Meanwhile, O'Regan's Subaru Cycling riders Tyler D'Arcy, Shane Eno and Mitchell MacDonald also traveled to Baie-St-Paul, Quebec and took part in the Grand Prix Charlevoix stage race.

The three-day event began for Mr. D'Arcy and Mr. MacDonald, who rode in the top-rated Pro/Senior 1-2 category with a Friday night criterium. Mr. D'Arcy, as a sprint specialist, managed to finish strong in the main group. Mr. Eno rode in the Master 2, 40-49 year old, category which did not take in the criterium.

Saturday had all three riders do a morning 15.8-km individual time trial and an afternoon 12.5-km hill climb. All three riders put in solid races against the clock that saw them finish nicely with times that put them in the middle of their packs.

The hill climb started with an 8-km flat section then turned right and climbed for 4.5 km at an average gradient of 6 per cent that belied the maximum gradient of 24 per cent.

The riders all agreed this climb dwarfed anything they had climbed in Nova Scotia. Mr. MacDonald was the standout for O'Regan's Subaru, finishing with the lead group just seconds off the winner.

Sunday's 120-km road race stage was an equally brutal affair. The course meandered about the Charlevoix region seemingly taking in as many short, steep climbs as possible.

By the end riders had gained 1600 metres of elevation. The challenge of this course once again allowed Mr. MacDonald to shine. Having been initially distanced during a long, fast descent, he was able to use the climbs to his advantage chasing his way back into the lead group and finishing again only seconds off the leader.

Mr. D'Arcy finished in the first chase pack behind Mr. MacDonald, and in the Master 2 category, Mr. Eno was distanced at the halfway point and finished the event off the back in a grupetto.

The provincial road championship race are scheduled for June 15 in Riverport. Over 100 riders are expected in the 23rd annual event, the longest-running road event of its kind in the Maritimes.

New Germany Lake boat launch being refurbished

By STACEY COLWELL
 scolwell@southshorenov.ca

NEW GERMANY LAKE — Veteran's Memorial Park on New Germany Lake is getting spruced up for a new season.

"The LaHave River Watershed Enhancement Foundation celebrates its 20th anniversary this year," explained chairman Ron Seney in an e-mail.

"The foundation applied for funding under the Nova Scotia sport-fish habitat fund to refurbish the boat launch and was successful."

He said the boat launch ramp is a popular access point for sport fishing, canoeing and kayaking, and also provides access for water and ice rescues, and research projects by the Department of Fisheries and Oceans.

A local contractor has recently been assessing the best approach to repositioning the original concrete boat launch slabs.

"Work will begin as soon as the water level of the lake makes the task accessible and friendly to the environment," said Mr. Seney.

"In this regard, the foundation is working in close co-operation with the Nova Scotia Environment Department."

Other work in progress includes an expansion of the parking areas and a new flag pole.

"The park is situated on land owned by Irving Oil and leased to the Foundation since 1996.

Sentinel Safety Consultants Ltd. has helped contribute funds for upgrades besides the boat launch ramp repositioning.

"The park has had the benefit of good neighbours on all sides that maintain the lawn and provide the foundation with a volunteer park supervisor."

The foundation also maintains the provincial park in Cookville.

BUSINESS

Asbestos removal company still a success after 20 years

Friends bought the company for $50,000 in 1994

By LEENA ALI

lali@southshorenw.ca

Jeff Corkum was looking for a big catch, but little did he know it would be a job eventually leading him to his future career.

"I was down fishing and the next door neighbour came over and he asked me if I wanted a job doing this asbestos removal," says Mr. Corkum, manager and co-owner of Asbestos Abatement Ltd.

Asbestos was a common material used in construction which was discovered to be hazardous and eventually banned in Canada — and removing the material was hard, physical work — but the 19-year-old Mr. Corkum was ready for the challenge.

"I started working for [Guildford Group]. I think by the time I was 22 I was working with them pretty well full-time."

The Lunenburg native and his current business partner, Conrad Mosher, both worked for the company when, in 1994, the two best friends decided to branch off and purchase a company of their own.

"Another friend of ours who worked in kind of the same industry, his partners owned Asbestos Abatement and ... he wanted the two of them to sell it," says Mr. Corkum.

"He came to us and said 'Look, my partners are willing to sell this thing and I want them to get rid of it, would you guys be interested?'"

They were asking for $100,000 for the company and at the time Mr. Corkum and Mr. Conrad only had half that.

"We always laugh because in hindsight we would have been under in six months — we never would have made it," says Mr. Corkum.

"But I said to Conrad, 'Let's go talk to them, that won't cost anything.'"

The owners at the time were also interested in selling the shares of the company and the business had $50,000 in receivables.

"We had come to the conclusion that we were willing to take the chance of buying the shares of the company and the big thing there was that by buying the shares they would sell the company cheaper."

At the time, the soon-to-be partners

Jeff Corkum is co-owner of Asbestos Abatement Ltd. along with business partner Conrad Mosher. While the head office is in Dartmouth, Ninety-five per cent of the company's workforce is from Lunenburg County.

were more familiar with hands-on asbestos removal, rather than the office side of the business, and that's when Mr.

Corkum was offered some valuable advice from a co-worker.

"There's three things you need to have in business," he said, 'And they're all equally important. If you don't have one of them you won't make it. You need to be able to get the work, you need to be able to get paid for the work.' Those were the three things. That's all you needed to know in business," says Mr. Corkum.

"I always laughed because we saved quite a bit in university degrees."

These days, Asbestos Abatement Limited keeps busy with about 400 jobs a year from across Atlantic Canada. The team usually attends between four and six sites a day.

"In '78 the government said that you were no longer allowed to bring asbestos into your warehouse to sell. But if your warehouse was full of it, you were allowed to use it up. So in some case, we were putting asbestos in until the early '80s," says Mr. Corkum.

"When we first started this, we were doing big jobs with asbestos up to 60 to 70 and 80 per cent. Today, we're doing dry-wall compound, five per cent."

On average, the company has about 20 to 40 employees throughout the year and has had many contracts with places such as Dalhousie University and the Department of National Defence.

Ninety-five per cent of the staff are from Lunenburg County and they have offices in Dartmouth and New Brunswick.

Like many industries today, new technologies have contributed to business development over the years. Mr. Corkum says some major shifts in the industry came thanks to cell phones and manlifts.

However, Mr. Corkum says what's most contributed to the success of the company was always making sure they had enough money for the bumps in the road.

"A lot of that comes from my partner being frugal. It's helped me because I was just the opposite. Without him I wouldn't have had what I have today," says Mr. Corkum.

"There's a saying, 'The more work the more luck I seem to have.' We put a lot of time in when we were younger, and even today."

Owner plans to close Java Bead if it doesn't sell
Business on Bridgewater's main street up for sale

By LEENA ALI
lali@southshorenw.ca

BRIDGEWATER — The owner of The Java Bead on Bridgewater's main street says the business will close this August if she's unable to find a buyer.

"I'm hoping that Bridgewater will grow as a shopper's destination and it would be nice if The Java Bead stayed here."

Liz Carter
The Java Bead owner

The shop will have been in business for seven years this summer, and owner Liz Carter says she's ready for a change.

"I no longer have the capacity or the energy or the passion," says Ms Carter, who hopes someone else will build on what she's started.

The store has been at its current location at 581 King Street for almost two years since moving from its original site at 724 King Street.

Ms Carter and her one employee offer a selection of beads, custom work, repair services, jewelry- and bead-making classes, and more. The shop also offers a metal-smithing course on how to fabricate jewelry from scratch.

She has also recently begun to focus on creating more of an on-line presence for her jewelry.

Ms Carter started jewelry making as a hobby while living in Las Vegas.

Liz Carter is the owner of The Java Bead on King Street in Bridgewater.

After moving to the South Shore, she began teaching a jewelry-making class for the Bridgewater Parks and Recreation Department in 2005, and after discovering there was not a great selection of beads on the area, she decided to open up her own shop.

"I envisioned this really cool place that you could come in and bring your computer ... have a coffee and just sit and be creative and just be around this positive environment."

She hopes that continues.

"Bridgewater is a nice little town. It's nice to see that now they're starting to care more about the downtown core with the new waterfront and everything that they're going to be doing," she says.

"I'm hoping that Bridgewater will grow as a shopper's destination and it would be nice if The Java Bead stayed here because it is unique."

Lincoln Street Food opens in Lunenburg
Halifax chef comes to the South Shore

By LEENA ALI
lali@southshorenw.ca

LUNENBURG — A well-known chef from Halifax has recently opened a new restaurant in Lunenburg with a focus on locally sourced and market-fresh foods.

"I feel really lucky that I've been part of two iconic restaurants in the landscape of Halifax and I thought there was an opportunity here."

Paolo Colbertaldo
Lincoln Street Food chef and owner

"It's been a long time in the making," says Paolo Colbertaldo, chef and owner of Lincoln Street Food.

The restaurant, which opened in May, offers options for vegetarians, vegans and pescetarians.

Mr. Colbertaldo brings 27 years of experience to Lincoln Street Food and previously worked as a chef for Jane's on the Common and Soho Kitchen.

"I feel really lucky that I've been part of two iconic restaurants in the landscape of Halifax and I thought there was an opportunity here," he says.

"The response I've gotten from everyone that's come in here is that it's basically simple, clean food with a healthy slant, from the markets as much as possible."

The menu will change depending on the season and will focus on locally-sourced, sustainable or organics foods.

"My wine list is all either sustainable, bio-dynamic or organic," says Mr. Colbertaldo.

"I serve meat and I serve fish. I want it to be a place that you can bring your grandfather, and he's a meat and potatoes guy and he can have the steak ... and then the vegan granddaughter comes and says, 'Oh I'll have the tofu.'"

Mr. Colbertaldo purchased the former home of Large Marge's Diner in December and since then has renovated the restaurant, giving it a modern atmosphere and an open kitchen.

Lincoln Street Food will focus on serving dinners and starting this week the restaurant will be open four nights a week, then have extended hours as the season continues.

Lincoln Street Food currently employs seven people.

"I've hired people in community, who know the people in the community because I think this could become a hub," says Mr. Colbertaldo.

A portion of Lincoln Street Food's entree sales will be donated to a local charity. The plan is to do this regularly, with a different charity each time.

OBITUARIES

Richard Franklyn Henley

It is with great sadness that the family of Richard Franklyn Henley announces his passing on Monday, April 7, 2014, at the age of 64.

Born in Bridgewater, Richard was the son of Mildred Henley (Wessell) and the late Borden Henley.

Richard worked as a Heavy Equipment Operator for the Nova Scotia Department of Transportation, retiring after 25 years of service. An avid draft horse enthusiast who enjoyed the outdoors, Richard always put family first and never hesitated to help a neighbour in need.

Richard is survived by Sheila, his wife of 40 years; as well as his son, Dwayne (Maria); sisters, Julia Oickle, Louise (John) Aulenback; grandchildren, Oliver Henley, Mila Vasquez, Mateo Vasquez (father Jose Vasquez); and several nieces and nephews. He was predeceased by daughter, Dawn; and brother, William (Bill).

A graveside service in memory of Richard was held on Friday, April 11 at 11 a.m. at St. Joseph's Catholic Cemetery, Chelsea, Father James MacDonald, OMI officiating. Donations in memory of Richard were made to the Canadian Pulmonary Fibrosis Foundation; St. Joseph's Catholic Cemetery, Chelsea; Mount Calvary Lutheran Church; St. Luke's Lutheran Church; All Saints Lutheran Church; and the Union Church.

Card of Thanks

The family of the late Richard Henley would like to thank everyone for the support received during this very difficult time. Thank you for the phone calls, e-mails, visits, sympathy cards and food sent to the home, for the flowers and everyone who made donations in memory of Richard. Also, thank you to Marion Mossman and Father James MacDonald for their visits and prayers, the Chelsea W.I. and friends who provided the food for the reception following the graveside service and the staff at Sweeny's Funeral Home. Thanks to respite workers and friends who stayed with Richard so I could visit Mom who was in the hospital. Special thanks to those who gave unselfishly of their time, to help in so many ways, as Richard struggled to deal with this difficult illness. Your support will never be forgotten.

A big thank you to Ray Hardy, Department of Transportation, who brought the CAT grader to the memorial service as a tribute to Richard and his years of service. The #1 would have been honoured.

Sheila, Dwayne and family

Constance Mildred "Connie" Corkum

Constance Mildred "Connie" Corkum, 95, of East LaHave, passed away peacefully on Sunday, May 25, 2014, in Harbour View Haven, Lunenburg, with her loving family by her side.

Born in Middle LaHave, May 8, 1919, she was the daughter of the late Captain Leo C. and Ora K. (Shankle) Lohnes.

Connie was a loving mother, grandmother and great-grandmother. Connie lived out her faith as a devoted member of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Middle LaHave, faithful choir member and treasurer of the Ladies Aid Group. An avid reader who also enjoyed embroidery work, gardening and her beloved dogs.

Connie is survived by daughters, Norma (Fenton) Dibbin, East LaHave; Catherine Anne (Ronald) Faulkenham, Bridgewater; Cheryl (Kevin) Corkum, Lunenburg; sisters, Gwendolyn MacLeod, Pleasantville and Arlene (Blair) Williamson, Kingston; half-brother, Leo Lohnes, Saint John; and half-sister, Shirley, Halifax; grandchildren, James (Jasmine Xia) Dibbin; Jennifer (John) Briand; Janice Dibbin; Jeffrey (Carol Black) Dibbin; Brian (Elizabeth Fraser) Corkum; Ian (Liz) Corkum; Gregory (Kimberlea Rawding) Faulkenham; Angela (Darryl) Zabarylo; Mallory (Ally Grist) Corkum; Amber (Keith Daly) Corkum; nine great-grandchildren, Erin, Kyle, Michael, Danielle, Nicholas, Alexander, Callum, Spencer, Evelyn; and step-great-grandchild, Rebecca; daughter-in-law, Ruth Corkum-Himmelman, East LaHave; and brother-in-law, Harry Walker, Chester; and many nieces and nephews.

Connie was predeceased by her husband, Donald; and son, Rodney; brothers, Burton and Wilfred; and sister, Leolyn.

Funeral service was held Saturday, May 31, at Dana L. Sweeny Funeral Home, Lunenburg.

Card of Thanks

The family of the late Constance Corkum wish to express sincere thanks and appreciation to many friends and family who sent flowers, memorial donations, cards, phone calls, on-line condolences and food.

Special thanks to the staff of Harbour View Haven for their care and compassion during our Mother's final days. Thanks to James Aulenback, choir members and Cheryl for special music. Also, thanks to Pastor Ott, Mike and staff of Dana L. Sweeny's Funeral Home.

The kindness and thoughtfulness of all who assisted in any way during our loss was greatly appreciated.

Norma, Catherine Anne, Cheryl and families

Shirley Evelyn Veinot

Shirley Evelyn Veinot, 92, of Waterloo, passed away May 17, 2014, in South Shore Regional Hospital, Bridgewater.

Born in Dayspring, she was the daughter of the late George Kenneth and Olive Beatrice (Hirtle) Fraser. She was predeceased by her husband of over 66 years, Murray Stewart Veinot; brother, Walter; son-in-law, Gerald Veinot; and grandsons, Rodney Veinot, Ervina "Joey" Veinot and Christopher Rioux. She is survived by daughters, Cheryl (Charlie) Grantham of Cookville and Ardyth (Ervina) Veinot of Waterloo; numerous grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

The body rested at R.A. Corkum Funeral Home, Wileville. Graveside funeral service was held May 22, at 2 p.m., Waterloo, with Rev. Brian MacArthur of Bridgewater Baptist Church, and Paula Davidson visitation ministry officiating. Following the committal, a reception was held at the home of Ervina and Ardyth Veinot.

Flowers: Casket Spray, family and the hand held roses from grandchildren and great-grandchildren. Memorial donations were made to Bridgewater Church Building Fund, Waterloo Cemetery Fund, Red Cross, and other charities of choice.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of the late Shirley Veinot wishes to express sincere thanks and appreciation to the many friends and family who made memorial donations, cards, phone calls, on-line condolences, flowers and preparing the food for the reception. Special thanks to Patrick Whalen for his kitchen duties, very much appreciated by all who attended the reception. Special thanks to the SSRH staff for the excellent care and compassion mom received during her brief stay; the staff of R.A. Corkum Funeral Home, Rev. MacArthur for his compassion and heart filled words about our mother, Paula Davidson for the reading of a very special poem and her kind words. Thank you to Collin, Dennis, Konner, Arthur, Tom, Jay, Michael and Jonah, grand and great-grandsons who were pallbearers.

We mourn the loss of our mother but celebrate that Mom and Dad have been reunited again. Thank you everyone who assisted in any way during our loss. Your kindness and thoughtfulness was greatly appreciated and will always be remembered.

Cheryl and Ardyth Veinot and families.

OBITUARIES

Leslie Ann Marie Everett

EVERETT, Leslie Ann Marie, July 29, 1968 – June 3, 2014. It is with great sadness that we announce the passing of Leslie Everett of Lower Cornwall, Lunenburg County. Leslie passed away peacefully under the loving care of her family, doctor and nurses at the South Shore Regional Hospital, Bridgewater.

Leslie lived her life with immense courage and love for her family, friends and her beloved dog, Max, and she looked forward to being reunited with her mother and brother in Heaven. She leaves behind family and friends that will treasure and remember her always.

Leslie was predeceased by her mother, Jeanne Evelyn Everett; sister, Marilynne J. "MJ" Allen; and brother, Michael George Everett. Surviving family are her father, Miles "Mike" (Darlene) Everett, PEI; brother, Jim (Lynn) Everett, Middle Sackville; sister-in-law, Suzie (Laroche) Everett, Blockhouse; nieces, Julie Everett, Middle Sackville; Jennifer (Allen) Drew, Halifax; Chrissy (Jason) Allen-Gibbons, Branch LaHave; Katherine and Aleecia Everett, Blockhouse; nephew, James Allen, Alberta; grandnephews, Morgan Allen, Jackson and Ryker Allen. God Parents, Ron and Mona Wentzel, Bridgewater; and close family friend, Wayne Keddy, Bridgewater.

A memorial service was held on Monday, June 9, 2014, at St. John's Lutheran Church, Mahone Bay, Reverend Stephen Kristenson officiated. Memorial donations in Leslie's memory can be made to The Epilepsy Association of Nova Scotia or SHAID Tree Animal Shelter through Mahone Funeral Home (902) 624-8241 or online at <http://www.mahonefuneral.ca>

Curtis Calvin Rhodenizer

It is with deep sadness and broken hearts that the family of Curtis Calvin Rhodenizer (Biddy), 88, of Hebbleville, announces his passing on February 23, 2014, peacefully with his daughter Susan by his side at the ALC Unit of the Fishermen's Memorial Hospital, Lunenburg. He was the son of the late Colin (Karl) and Bernice (Hebb) of Auburndale.

He is survived by his brother, Roland (Michelle), Newcombville; sister, Muriel Uhlman, New Elm; as well as many nieces and nephews.

He was predeceased by his wife Helen (Crouse); sisters, Hazel, Elsie, Grace; and brothers Clayton, Moyle and Lawrence.

Prior to dad's retirement he worked for the Department of Highways, Hebbleville. He also worked for Calvin Snyder's Mill, Wileville and many years with Hirtle's Transfer of Hebbleville.

During his life dad had a love for gardening and couldn't wait for winter to get over so he could get back outside digging in the ground to get his seeds started. He had a knack for growing peas, beans, squash and pumpkins. He was always so proud of his tulip garden in the spring. He was a hard-working man who loved his 1954 Ferguson tractor and tinkering around his garage. Dad was a charismatic man who made friends everywhere he went. He enjoyed phone calls and visits from family, friends and his many customers. He loved the simple things in life like watching the evening news or sneaking a sweet whenever he could. His smile, warm heart and wisdom will be missed by all.

Funeral arrangements were entrusted to R.A. Corkum Funeral Home, Wileville, and funeral service was held February 27, 2014, at 2 p.m., at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Bridgewater, with Pastor Paul Jensen officiating. The hymns sung were "How Great Thou Art", and "In The Garden". Interment was in the Hebbleville Cemetery, a reception followed at St. Paul's Lutheran Church hall. Pallbearers were Timmy Guest, Glen Hebb, Ervine Rhodenizer, Garnet Beck, Robert Smith and Charlie Baker.

Family flowers only. Memorial donations were made to St. Paul's Lutheran Church, ALC Unit Fishermen's Memorial Hospital, Canadian Diabetes Association, South Shore Regional Hospital, Canadian Cancer Society, Heart and Stroke Foundation, Hebbleville Fire Department, St. Luke's Lutheran Church, Auburndale Cemetery, Newcombville Cemetery, Roseanne Himmelman Fund and SHAID Tree Animal Shelter.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of the late Curtis Rhodenizer wish to express a sincere and heartfelt thanks to family and friends for their many acts of kindness shown to us during our loss. Many thanks to everyone who made many trips to the hospitals to visit dad. Thank you to those who gave memorial donations, sent cards, on-line condolences and phone calls. Special thanks to Paster Paul Jensen for the many visits to see dad and for the lovely service and words of comfort. Thank you to the organist, choir and ladies auxiliary of St. Paul's Lutheran Church. Thank you to the pallbearers and Towne Flowers. Thank you to Dr. Gandhi for the many, many years of being dad's family doctor. To Dr. Robertson and nurses of the 3rd floor of the SSRH, thank you. Thank you to Robert and Krista of R.A. Corkum's Funeral Home. Lastly grateful thanks and appreciation to Dr. Zwicker, nurses and staff of the ALC Unit of the Fishermen's Memorial Hospital, Lunenburg, for all your kindness, care and compassion that was given to our dad. Everyone's kindness was greatly appreciated and we all thank you from the bottom of our hearts.

May God Bless you all,
Vincent, Francis, Susan and Faye

We often lay awake at night when the world is fast asleep,
And take a walk down memory lane with tears upon our cheek.

The years we spent together are worth their weight in gold,
The joy and laughter that you gave are ours to have and hold.

We'll hold you close within our hearts, and there you will remain,
To walk with us throughout our lives until we meet again.

MEMORIAMs

PIERCE: In loving memory of a dear father, father-in-law, grand-father and great-grandfather, Terry, who passed away June 12, 2013.

TERRY'S PLACE
There's a special kind of feeling
When we think about you (grand) dad,
It's a pleasure to remember
All the happy times we've had.
There's a special kind of caring
That is meant for you alone,
There's a special place within our hearts
That only you can own.

Forever loved and always remembered, daughter, Michelle;
daughter-in-law, Debbie;
grandson, Mike with wife Sarah and two great-grandchildren, Jack and Olive.

HUBLEY: In loving memory of Margaret Irene, a wonderful mother, who passed away June 10, 2007.

Seven years have passed
Since you were called away, Mom.
It's lonely here without you,
We miss you more every day.
As days go on,
No matter what we do,
A special place within our hearts
Is always kept for you.

Always remembered by children, Trinda (Kevin), Heather, Stephen (Brenda); grandchildren, Jesse, Michael, Heidi, Dillon.

MEMORIAMs

Remembering a kind, loving and devoted Husband, Dad, Grampy, brother, uncle and friend - Rhodes Mercer, who passed away June 14, 2004.

In the month of June
When the Lilacs bloom
And the Iris stand so brightly
I'll think of you
When the sky is blue
And the sun does shine so brightly
With the first mown grass
And first fall of snow
As seasons come and seasons go
I'll think of you so often
And wish that you could be here too
And watch the rosebuds blossom.

Written by Karen Higney
Always loved and forever missed, Karen, Jennifer, Brad, Jason, Gail, Sydney, Kelsey, and the Mercer family.

HULL: In loving memory of my brother, Joseph Dean, who passed away June 11, 2001.

The years have gone
But the heartaches are not,
You are gone from sight
But always in my thoughts,
Gone are the days we used to share
But in my heart you will be always there.
Loved and sadly missed, sister, Barbara.

MEMORIAMs

PIERCE: In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Terry, who passed away June 12, 2013.

We little knew the morning
God was going to call your name,
In life we loved you dearly
In death we do the same.
It broke our hearts to lose you
You did not go alone,
For part of us went with you
The day He called you home.
You left us beautiful memories
Your love is still our guide,
And although we cannot see you
You are always by our side.

Our family chain is broken
And nothing seems the same,
But as God calls us one by one
The chain will link again.
Always loved and will never be forgotten, wife, Juanita; daughter, Melissa; son-in-law, Brian and grandchildren, Caden and Liam.

MEMORIAMs

SPROULE: Lila Mae, June 11, 2012.

As I sit safe in Heaven
And watch you every day,
I try and let you know in smells
I never went away.
I hear you when you're laughing
And watch you as you sleep,
I even place my arms around you
To calm you as you weep.
I see you wish the days away
Begging to have me home,
So I try to send you signs
So you know you're not alone.
Don't feel guilty that you have life
That was denied to me,
Heaven is truly beautiful
Just you wait and see.
So live your life, laugh again
Enjoy yourself, be free,
Then I'll know with every breath you take You'll be taking one for me.

Sadly missed daughter, Buffy and Kenny Fitzgerald.

New cross stands on East Dalhousie Baptist Church peak

By REBECCA DINGWELL
rdingwell@southshorenov.ca

EAST DALHOUSIE — On May 25, a new cross at the East Dalhousie Baptist Church was dedicated to the memory of Marion Wilson, who made a profound impact on her community before passing away at age 89.

"Marion seemed to know everybody — and she wasn't a busybody," said Torry Sullivan, who met her through the church after moving to the area.

"She and her husband [Eric] helped out at every community event."

According to Ms Sullivan, Ms Wilson essentially, "Ran the church" until about a year ago.

"She asked me a couple years ago if, at some point, I'd be willing to take over the books [Ms Wilson] was a scary lady sometimes," she laughed.

"I wondered if I was doing things correctly, for fear Marion would say, 'That's not what I wanted.'"

Ms Sullivan did take over the following year, as her husband had taken over lighting the church's wood stove — a job that was previously done by Mr. Wilson.

After Ms Wilson passed away, people were able to make donations to the church in her memory. The donations weren't enough to purchase the new wood stove the church needed, but Ms Sullivan had another idea.

"We live just down the road from the church. We were driving down [the road] one day... and I said to my husband, 'Wouldn't it be nice to have a cross on the front peak of the church?'"

After getting approval from the other parish members, Ms Sullivan contacted Scott Hamlin of Scotian Ironworks to make the cross.

Coincidentally, Mr. Hamlin had received a template for a cross years ago which he had always wanted to make.

"It was one of the most perfect pieces of artwork. It was so simply made," he said.

"I knew I had the ability to do it, but I'd never had the opportunity to do it."

Mr. Hamlin built a sample piece for Ms Sullivan, to which she agreed.

"The cross is split on two sides," explained Mr. Hamlin, adding the steel starts as a square, and as you unfold it, it forms a cross.

With the help of his son, Mr. Hamlin made the finished product from two-by-two inch steel.

"I think Marion would be pleased. She wouldn't like the spending of the money," said Ms. Sullivan.

"But I think she would approve."

Torry Sullivan
Church volunteer

The church's cross, made by Scott Hamlin, stands in memory of Marion Wilson.

HALT AND CATCH FIRE

AMC

It's easy to forget that, just a few decades ago, the heavily computer-based society in which we now live was just coming to light. To remind us, AMC is taking things back to the '80s with "Halt and Catch Fire." The new period drama gives an insider's view into the pivotal personal computer revolution to show just how we got to where we are technologically. The series kicked off earlier this month, and its next episode airs Sunday, June 15, on AMC.
